PART III, LINE 4b - CLEAN VEHICLES PROGRAM - Low Carbon Fuel Standard (LCFS) - Worked both independently and through the Environmental Coalition to help shape and support this regulation, covering a range of support from high-level principles to detailed input on specific language and data. Detailed suggestions on improvements on the Air Resource Board's (ARB) two official draft proposals. This included extending the applicability of the standard (to ensure it included hydrogen for e.g.), less burdensome ways of tracking sales of alternative fuels, a proposal to establish specific "ultra-low carbon fuel" targets and many clarifying suggestions on the methodology and logic of the standard. Coordinated with the Environmental Coalition to develop a joint position on the issue of indirect land use impacts of biofuels in support of the inclusion of these impacts. Met frequently with ARB, and submitted both individual and joint comments on the most scientifically defensible inclusion of indirect land use impacts. Helped craft several joint letters with the Environmental Coalition to cover a wide range of topics that we as a Coalition saw as critical to the success of the LCFS. In many cases, EIN established a moderating role between Coalition members that have differing views, helping the common ground to be identified and built on. The issues we tackled include ensuring that the LCFS leads to ultra low carbon fuels development, ensuring minimum environmental and sustainability safeguards, and providing mechanism to be sure these new fuels do not allow any backsliding on air quality achievements. Played a central role in providing analysis of the economics and compliance scenarios of the LCFS, helping the overall coalition with its understanding and joint positions.

AB 32 - The Global Warming Solutions Act - In the lead up to the Scoping Plan adoption in late 2008, EIN led the Environmental Coalition in addressing the issues of transport under the cap and trade. We analyzed the proposed options for the transport sector, shared our analysis with the coalition, and voiced strong support for the inclusion of transport in the cap and trade regulation, a battle that was ultimately successful. Transport is to be included beginning in 2015. EIN worked closely on other issues relevant to achieving the transportation sector objectives in the context of AB32. This included the electricity sector, addressing the transfer of credits between the LCFS and AB32, as well as suggestions on overcoming the disincentives to electric power growth that are currently embedded in the utility regulations

Zero Emissions Vehicle (ZEV) Program - In April 2008, the Air Board directed staff to completely redesign the ZEV regulation over an 18-month period to affect model year 2015 and beyond. In this context, we crafted and submitted a joint vision document with two other members of the Environmental Coalition with key principals for a re-visioned ZEV program. EIN subsequently participated in a ZEV-Clean Cars Log Cabin meeting with CARB staff and Board members, SCAQMD staff, legislative staff, academia, industry associations, and other environmental stakeholders to discuss the future vision for a fully integrated ZEV program. Advocated in support of ARB Board's directive to staff to make modifications to the existing Clean Fuels Outlet program to ensure availability of ZEV fueling infrastructure to support vehicles deployed under the timeline of the ZEV regulation. Engaged directly with staff and Board members, urging CARB to move forward on the Clean Fuels Outlet program, especially in light of what EIN now feels is the inability of the LCFS to adequately deliver ultra low carbon fuels to the marketplace in the timeframe that zero emission vehicles will be deployed.

Alternative and Renewable Vehicle Fuel and Technology Program Implementation (AB 118) - EIN's Executive Director, Daniel Emmett, was appointed to the Advisory Committee for the California Energy Commission's newly established Alternative and Renewable Fuel and Vehicle Technology Program, created with the passage of AB 118. EIN worked within this context as well as with our colleagues in the PetroRedux and ZEV Alliance groups, as well as stakeholders and interested agencies, to develop and communicate recommendations for a strategy and priorities for spending the roughly $120 million per year under this program. Through various iterations of the process, EIN advocated for the following. 1) a focus on transportation strategies rather than technology "buckets," for prioritizing those transportation strategies with the most potential to deliver climate benefits, 2) for assessing regulatory barriers to adoption of alternative fuels and vehicles, 3) for a cross-sector accounting and resource diversion, 4) for supporting small, disruptive business, 5) for including EV and PHEV retrofits and upfits, 6) for increasing the allocation to the Ultra Low Carbon Fuels category, 7) for leveraging existing partnerships and institutional resources, 8) for flexibility to modify funding allocations and projects, and 9) for inclusion of renewable diesel and high blends of renewable diesel. EIN and the Environmental Coalition also advocated for not limiting sustainability goals to California state resources, for adopting sustainability criteria in the regulation rather than after, for including minimum sustainability requirements, and for supporting fuels and technologies with the best potential to reduce greenhouse gas emissions.
