FPA Boston 2008-FPA Boston constitutes the single largest non-dues revenue source for the Association. The event represents to our membership that FPA stands for: Knowledge, Community, Advocacy and Leadership. The annual conference attendance for this event was the highest with approximately 3,267 total attendees. Sponsorship and exhibitors also hit a record high. Attendees and exhibitors alike were extremely happy with the experience in Boston. The education program was highly rated; FPA even allowed for a last minute session on the economic environment to address the current times. Toward the end of the event the markets began to "crash" causing a great deal of concern amongst the financial planner attendees for their clients. Despite these concerns, the attendees remained upbeat and highly engaged in the Membership- The FPA Member Relations department ensures that existing and prospective members are aware of all the benefits the Financial Planning Association makes available to support financial planners, their practices, their careers and their clients. These benefits include consumer education and awareness, advocacy on behalf of the profession, tools and resources to maintain knowledge and certifications and technical journals to improve proficiency and effectiveness. In addition, the Member Relations department provides staff to answer member's questions and address concerns.

4c (Code) (Expenses $ including grants of $) (Revenue $)

Research- The FPA Research Center greatly expanded on the body of knowledge around financial planning through the consumer and planner research. We commissioned Harris Interactive for a comprehensive consumer study examining the value of financial planning in providing peace of mind, security, and other benefits. In addition, we supported three academic research projects, including two dissertation projects.
Annual studies were also built on including research in the retirement income distribution market, the investment selection process and trends and business performance studies.
