Part IV Supplemental Information. Complete this part to provide the information required in Part I, line 2, and any other additional information.

Berkeley Divinity School cooperates with other theological schools in following uniform guidelines for financial aid. In addition, we are subject to the rules and regulations surrounding the government loan and work programs in which we participate. A financial aid committee composed of students, faculty and the financial aid officer determines specific policy and priorities within the framework of guidelines and regulations, setting the type and amount of financial assistance to be allocated in individual situations from funds available.

The primary purpose of financial aid is to provide assistance to those students who demonstrate need regardless of race, national or ethnic origin, sex, handicap, or denominational affiliation. Need is defined as the difference between the total cost of attending BDS and the amount of resources available to the student.

Financial aid to meet determined need is a combination of Yale Divinity School/Berkeley Divinity School grants and government loans added to those resources available to the student through self help. The student must be aware that he or she has the major responsibility for his or her educational and living expenses. The Berkeley Divinity School's aid will augment the student's efforts.

Grants are awarded to faculty and students from outside agencies and the funds are sent directly to the university to be managed. Original receipts are submitted to provide substantiation of expenses and final reports are forwarded to the sponsors.
