Identifier	Return Reference	Explanation
Other Information	Part IV	The Foundation uses five critical mechanisms to ensure that grant funds are appropriately applied to achieve desired goals 1) grant applications in which prospective grantees specify project goals, objectives, evaluation strategies and budget, 2) grant contracts that confirm project goals, outcomes, evaluation plans, reporting requirements and site visit plans, 3) interim reports prepared by grantees, which document progress in meeting goals and objectives, 4) site visits by foundation staff and volunteers, which allow for an open dialogue between program and foundation staff, as well as observation of program activities when appropriate and, 5) final reports To the extent possible, reporting and evaluation requirements are right-sized to match the size of any given award While all awards begin with a grant application and contract, Foundation mini-grants (awards under $2,000) often only require a final report Grants above $2,000 typically require a site visit, interim report and final report Most grants are funded for one year at a time meaning that within roughly a year's time, the foundation receives an application, issues a grant contract, receives an interim report at 6-months, conducts a site visit and receives a final report (within 14 months)
