United Way of Greater Toledo (UWGT) engaged volunteers, community partners, and key stakeholders in creating a dynamic and interactive plan, the Agenda for Change, to achieve measurable community change in priority areas of Education, Income, Health, essential services and outreach The plan includes three types of strategies necessary to our success systemic change, advocacy, and program investment UWGT program investment decisions are made annually with a focus on services targeted to individuals and families, in Lucas, Wood and Ottawa counties, with household incomes of less then 300 percent of the federal poverty level or to people with special needs where services are not typically available Education The rate of development from conception to kindergarten is faster than during any other period of the lifespan During this short period, children develop the capacity to communicate, think, express and understand emotions, make friends, regulate their behavior, and distinguish between right and wrong A child's earliest experiences matter because the first years of life form the foundation for the rest of the child's life Ensuring that children have the skills and experiences needed to be prepared for success in kindergarten is a major indicator of their future educational success That's why United Way of Greater Toledo directs a large amount of our resources toward early learning for children ages 0-5 As a result of our partnered efforts with local organizations to mobilize systems and resources to support the success of young children, specific neighborhoods in our community have seen an increase in literacy levels of incoming kindergarten students Also, 80 percent of children ages 3-5 who had parents participating in parent education groups or in home-based interactive sessions met developmental milestones necessary to be ready to enter kindergarten Furthermore, in today's competitive global economy, effective education ismore important than ever before The number-one predictor of youth success in life is graduating from high school According to the America's Promise Alliance, more than 25 percent of U S students do not finish high school The figure is nearly twice that for African-American and Latino students In addition, 60 percent of 10-to-21-year olds nationally say their schools should give them more preparation for the real world To build the capacity necessary to advance our education work, we have partnered with national organizations such as the America's Promise Alliance Through this partnership we understand that along with a quality education, children need other supports in order to be successful in school, work, and life - caring adults, safe places, and opportunities to serve others From afterschool enrichment and tutoring programs, to alternative school suspension and mentoring programs, we know that more young people have opportunities and environments needed to live successful and healthy lives Income The community and family issues that stem from economic and financial pressures are becoming increasingly complex and more difficult to address Wages have not kept pace with the rising cost of housing, healthcare and education, and skill levels have not stayed in alignment with changing industry needs United Way of Greater Toledo works to strengthen communities by identifying and tackling the underlying causes of the financial hardships facing today's families By aligning cross-sector partners to give lower-income individuals and families the tools and skills necessary to maximize their income, build savings, and gain assets, we are helping these families achieve financial independence According to the U S Department of Labor Bureau and Statistics, the unemployment rates in the Toledo Metropolitan area have generally remained higher than those for the state of Ohio or the United States In response, UWGT is making significant change in the area of Income by focusing resources on making families and individuals financially stable This year, a Financial Stability Collaborative was formed in an effort to bring together fragmented community resources, reduce the duplication of services, and create one solid process for financial education This collaborative has two free of charge opportunities financial education through a Learning Academy and client advocacy This financial education program incorporates three phases (1) building a foundation for basic budgeting, (2) overcoming financial setbacks by managing current resources and (3) planning for the future by investing for tomorrow through higher education or a new career Professionals from banks, nonprofits, businesses, and public utilities are just a few of the people who lead the discussions and opportunities Through client advocacy, participants are assigned to an advocate who guides them through identifying their needs, encouraging them to set and achieve goals, connecting them to appropriate education, and establishing linkages to sources of support right in their own communities Results of this work include 90 percent of heads of households and their families that were facing eviction or were already homeless maintained permanent housing for at least six months after attending housing support/education programs, 4,629 individuals resolved their legal issues with brief consultation services, and 83 percent of families receiving case management services that were "unbanked" opened accounts and had balances of at least $200 after three months Health While UWGT believes education is essential to finding a job which provides income to support a family, we also know if an individual does not have his or her health, nothing else matters Thousands of children under age six are vulnerable to poor social and emotional outcomes More than 200,000 are victims of child abuse or neglect, and their exposure to violence has a direct impact on brain development, with social and emotional consequences UWGT uses best practices to support a continuum of services, beginning with promotion of social and emotional wellness and prevention of social and emotional health problems, extending through early intervention and treatment UWGT invests in school-wide, climate-change initiatives to boost academic achievement, remove barriers to learning, and increase recruitment and retention Schools receive intensive professional development, coaching and consultation throughout the school year on strategies and structures for creating caring learning connections between students, teachers, parents, and the entire school community In addition, teachers prevent risky behaviors by teaching and practicing social and emotional skills Through these types of investments the community has seen results such as 74 percent of central city kids in grades 1-12 improving at least one grade level in math and/or reading Additionally, UWGT has made substantial investments to address the seriously inadequate capacity for addressing children's health needs UWGT also invested in buses that travel around greater Toledo to city parks and local housing units, providing free and fun activities for local children This partnership between the YMCA/Jewish Community Center and Lucas County Metropolitan Housing Authority resulted in 14,249 youth participating in free, summer Fun Bus activities In each Education, Income, and Health, UWGT also uses advocacy efforts and volunteer manpower to help further advance the common good in our community Essential Services and Outreach UWGT understands that unless a person has a place to sleep at night and food on the table, he or she will not be able to focus on obtaining education, financial stability or health That is why we continue to support a foundation of basic needs To help ensure people know how and where to access resources, United Way is committed to providing outreach to the community UWGT's outreach efforts are carried out through four internal programs United Way 2-1-1, United Way Volunteer Center, United Way Family Information Network, and United Way Labor/Community Services Adopt-A-Family, as well as multiple additional programs and initiatives supported by grants (i e AmeriCorps, Homelessness Prevention and Rapid Re-Housing Program, and The Center for Nonprofit Resources)
