The Alliance for Aging Research performs scholarly and scientific studies on aging-related topics and publishes the results to the general public, government agencies, medical and scientific communities.

- Alzheimer's Disease Pocket Films: Working to increase public understanding of a 21st century epidemic, the Alliance for Aging Research has released a series of four short animated films called A Quick Look at Alzheimer's. Written and directed by David Shenk, author of The Forgetting, and narrated by Emmy and Tony award-winning actor David Hyde Pierce, the films explain the essence of the disease and its public health implications. These short "pocket" films are playable on laptops, cell phones, iPods, PDAs, and DVD players—making them easy to view and pass on. They are designed for doctors, nurses, caregivers, public health advocates, and others—to increase understanding in order to reduce stigma, improve care, and help strengthen the fight against this challenging disease. The films can be found at www.agingresearch.org
- Caregiving and Alzheimer's Disease: Building off the success of its first workshop kit for caregivers of people with Alzheimer's disease, the Alliance has updated its award-winning resource, Helping Yourself Help a Loved One. The updated kit provides the tools that senior centers and other community groups need to conduct an educational workshop—including a leader's guide, DVD, and a new workbook to help caregivers navigate through difficult issues, make the most of limited time, and take better care of their loved ones and themselves. To launch the updated program, the Alliance conducted a series of workshops in Boston, Philadelphia, and Washington, DC.
- Diseases in the Shadows: The Alliance designed its Diseases in the Shadows series to brief lawmakers on dangerous health conditions that affect millions of older Americans, yet tend to get little national attention. This year, the Alliance hosted Capitol Hill briefings on two topics: delirium and oral care in the elderly. Experts at the delirium briefing outlined the dramatic impact of hospital-acquired delirium on elderly patients, while experts at the oral care briefing explained the negative consequences of poor oral care in older Americans. Both panels discussed how policy changes would improve the quality of healthcare and benefit the overall health and well-being of those who suffer from these conditions.
- Osteoporosis Prevention and Treatment: In an effort to provide easy access to diagnostic information and treatment guidelines on osteoporosis, the Alliance has developed a clipboard tool for health care professionals. The tool features an algorithm that provides step-by-step diagnostic and treatment instructions based on a person's age, gender, and health status. It also includes a chart of FDA-approved osteoporosis medications, and tips on discussing osteoporosis prevention and risk factor reduction with patients.

- Standing Strong against Osteoporosis: Addressing physician-patient communication gaps that continue to hinder optimal prevention and treatment of osteoporosis, the Alliance has developed Standing Strong: Preventing and Treating Osteoporosis. This workshop kit helps community and health leaders teach women how to take control in the fight against this disease and better communicate with their doctor. In addition to leader and participant materials, a DVD shares stories from women with osteoporosis and provides information from a leading expert.
- Age-Related Macular Degeneration: The Alliance has updated its popular brochure, Taking a Closer Look at Age-Related Macular Degeneration, to include exciting new discoveries that have been made in understanding this disease. Age-related macular degeneration (AMD) is the leading cause of irreversible vision loss in Americans over the age of 65. The brochure provides the latest information on AMD—including risk factors, prevention and detection, the importance of early diagnosis, and recent advances in treatment and diagnosis. It joins the Alliance's other AMD resources in the "AMD Health Corner" at www.agingresearch.org/section/topic/amd.
- The Silver Book[®]: Vision Loss: In partnership with the National Alliance for Eye and Vision Research (NAEVR), the Alliance for Aging Research has launched a vision loss volume of The Silver Book[®]: Chronic Disease and Medical Innovation in an Aging Nation. It highlights data on the more than 38 million older Americans impacted by blindness, vision loss, and age-related eye disease. It was released at a Capitol Hill briefing where panelists spoke about the burden of vision loss on individuals and the economy, and the value of medical innovation in mitigating that burden. The new data can be found online at www.silverbook.org, joining more than 1,500 facts and statistics on chronic disease gathered from almost 400 independent studies and reports.

Public Policy: $332,424

The Alliance for Aging Research partners with the government, private and corporate policy makers, and other nonprofit organizations to promote research on aging related topics.

- Advancing Aging Research: Led by the Alliance for Aging Research, the Friends of the National Institute on Aging is a coalition committed to advancing research on aging and the diseases that affect millions of older Americans. The coalition achieves this goal by raising awareness among policymakers of important research supported by the National Institute on Aging (NIA). In March 2008, the Alliance submitted testimony to the U.S. House and Senate Committees on Appropriations on behalf of the Friends of the NIA. It called for a 6.6 percent increase in funding for the National Institutes of Health (NIH) for Fiscal Year 2009. The testimony highlighted how an investment in basic research could accelerate discoveries to prevent, treat, and potentially cure a wide range of debilitating and costly age-related diseases. Through education on Capitol Hill, and involvement with the NIH Biomarker Consortium, the Alliance seeks to advance trans-NIH projects related to longevity and provide adequate support for associated aging research activities.

- The Alliance continues to serve on the board of the Coalition for the Advancement of Medical Research (CAMR). CAMR is the principal group advocating for regenerative medicine (including stem cell research and somatic cell nuclear transfer) to treat and cure disease. CAMR and its members continue to support federal funding for embryonic stem cell research on behalf of millions of Americans suffering from life-threatening diseases—such as Parkinson’s and Alzheimer’s disease. Daniel Perry, the Alliance’s executive director, currently serves as CAMR’s treasurer and director.
- In June 2008, the Alliance hosted its inaugural Florence S. Mahoney “Making a Difference” Award reception on Capitol Hill. The award was established in memory of Florence S. Mahoney to recognize her accomplishments as an advocate for aging research. The first award was given to Erk Fatemi, a professional staff member on the Senate Labor, Health and Human Services, Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations Subcommittee, to acknowledge his steadfast support of the medical research community and his many contributions to advancing scientific progress.
- Strengthening the U.S. Food and Drug Administration: For the second consecutive year, the Alliance was the chairing organization for Accelerate Cure/Treatments for Alzheimer’s Disease (ACT-AD). ACT-AD’s advocacy resulted in several milestones in 2008, including the expansion of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration’s (FDA) patient consultant program to include Alzheimer’s disease, and the creation of “Neurology Across FDA,” an internal FDA working group focused on issues relating to Alzheimer’s disease. ACT-AD also hosted the first Alzheimer’s Disease Ally/FDA Scientific Workshop, which brought together leading scientists, regulators, drug developers, Alzheimer’s advocates, and the FDA to explore a topic of critical importance—how to define clinical meaningfulness in developing and reviewing treatments for Alzheimer’s disease.
- The Alliance for Aging Research assumed a leadership role of the newly-created Alliance for a Stronger FDA in January 2008. This organization was formed through the merger of two existing groups that advocated for increased appropriations to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, and represents a diverse range of interests from human health to food safety. As a member of the Alliance for a Stronger FDA's board of directors, the Alliance for Aging Research has had the opportunity to stress the need for adequate funds to support FDA drug evaluation activities, as well as highlight the central role the FDA plays in promoting and protecting the health of older Americans.

- In August 2008, the Alliance for Aging Research joined with the Critical Path Institute, other key disease advocates, and representatives from the pharmaceutical, biologics, and diagnostics industries to form the Coalition Against Major Diseases (CAMD). The goal of CAMD is to establish a consortium of stakeholders whose focus is to improve clinical trials and accelerate the prevention, treatment, and cure of neurodegenerative diseases. The Alliance will contribute its expertise in the area of Alzheimer's disease to CAMD's efforts.
- Improving Care for Older Americans: The Institute of Medicine (IOM) released Retooling for an Aging America: Building the Health Care Workforce in April 2008. By providing a snapshot of the health care challenges posed by elderly patients living with multiple chronic conditions, the IOM report highlighted the complex health needs of our rapidly aging population and the inability of our current health care workforce to meet these needs. The Alliance for Aging Research has always been a strong proponent of federal policies to help bolster the nation's geriatric health care workforce. Over the past 20 years, the Alliance has provided leadership by convening advocates, drafting legislation, and speaking before multiple audiences to address the dearth of training for geriatric health care professionals. As an early and consistent advocate for improved incentives to compensate those who care for our aging population, the Alliance has joined with leading organizations representing health care professionals to identify effective ways in which to move the IOM recommendations forward.
- In March 2008, the Alliance endorsed Senate bill 2708—the “Caring for an Aging America Act.” The bill was introduced by Senator Barbara Boxer (D-CA), specifically to address the emerging gap between the rapidly increasing number of older Americans and the lack of providers who are trained in caring for their complex health needs. S. 2708 would provide loan forgiveness and career advancement opportunities to improve the retention and training of geriatric health care professionals. In addition, the bill would establish a health and long-term care workforce advisory panel for an aging America. A companion bill (H.R. 6337) was introduced in the House of Representatives in June 2008 by Representative Carolyn Kilpatrick (D-MI).
- Coalitions: Last year, the Alliance contributed to policy activities as part of the following coalitions:

1. Accelerate Cure/Treatments for Alzheimer's Disease (ACT-AD): ACT-AD is a coalition of 50 national organizations committed to accelerating the research and development of better treatments and potential cures for Alzheimer's disease.
2. Ad Hoc Group for Medical Research: The Ad Hoc Group for Medical Research represents more than 300 patient groups, scientific and medical societies, research institutions, and industry organizations. Members support increased federal funding for the National Institutes of Health.
3. Alliance for a Stronger FDA: The Alliance for a Stronger FDA unites 185 patient groups, consumer advocates, biomedical research advocates, health professionals, and industry members in an effort to increase appropriations to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA). It is supported by leading public health advocates, including three former Secretaries of the Department of Health and Human Services and seven former FDA Commissioners.
4. Coalition for the Advancement of Medical Research (CAMR): Comprised of more than 100 patient groups, scientific and medical societies, foundations, and major universities, CAMR is the nation's leading bipartisan pro-cures coalition. CAMR actively educates lawmakers and the public about the field of medical research, including developments related to all forms of stem cell research, with a focus on developing better treatments and cures for people with life-threatening illnesses and disorders.
5. Friends of the National Institute on Aging: The Friends of the National Institute on Aging (NIA) is a coalition of 50 academic institutions and patient organizations committed to the advancement of health sciences research that benefits millions of older Americans. Friends of the NIA supports the research and training missions of the NIA, and advocates for NIA initiatives as public policies in health and research take shape.
6. Leadership Council of Aging Organizations (LCAO): The Leadership Council of Aging Organizations is made up of 56 non-profit organizations that serve older Americans. Members of the LCAO are dedicated to preserving and strengthening the well-being of America's older population.
7. Partnership to Fight Chronic Disease (PFCD): The Partnership to Fight Chronic Disease is a national coalition of patients, providers, community organizations, business and labor groups, and health policy experts. It is committed to raising awareness of policies and practices that save lives and reduce health costs—through more effective prevention and management of chronic disease. PFCD currently has more than 85 members.

8. Personalized Medicine Coalition (PMC): The Personalized Medicine Coalition is an independent, non-profit group that works to advance the understanding and adoption of personalized medicine for the ultimate benefit of patients. PMC membership encompasses a broad spectrum of academic, industrial, patient, and health care provider constituencies.

The Alliance belongs to other coalitions that work to advance healthy aging. A full listing can be found at www.agingresearch.org.

Communications: $61,299

The Alliance for Aging Research disseminates information on aging-related health topics, conducts surveys, and provides online web-based information on issues impacting the aging community.

Research and Professional Development: $7.543

The Alliance for Aging Research supports, sponsors, conducts and attends conferences related to topics that promote research on aging.
