INCOME:

The community and family issues that stem from the economic and financial pressures facing individuals and their families are growing increasingly complex and more difficult to address. Wages have not kept pace with the rising cost of housing, healthcare, and education. UWHC brings together a diverse group of partners to help lower-income individuals and families achieve financial independence with a mix of short-term emergency supports, advocacy and awareness building, and initiatives to increase people's income.

EDUCATION:

Education is the cornerstone of individual and community success. It's essential to getting and keeping a job with a livable wage and health benefits. And it's fundamental to a community's economic prosperity: a well-educated workforce attracts world-class jobs. UWHC supports a range of efforts to ensure that everyone in our community has access to the educational supports they need from mentoring programs to literacy training; ensuring all students have the tools they need to start the school year ready to learn; and teaching the next generation of leaders about the importance of volunteering and philanthropy.

A family without health insurance is often overwhelmed to the point of bankruptcy by the financial burdens of an illness. Seniors without prescription assistance have to make frightening decisions on which medicine they can afford and which ones they will go without. Whether it is a victim of abuse, a senior in need of care during the day, or someone struggling with mental illness or an addiction, United Way works to ensure everyone has access to affordable and quality care so they can lead safe, healthy, and rewarding lives and will work with a range of community partners to address the obstacles to a healthy

The Hunterdon Housing Alliance is undertaking a unique tri-county collaboration between Hunterdon, Warren, and Sussex Counties to alleviate homelessness. Partners from neighboring united ways, local human services agencies, County Divisions of Social Services and Departments of Human Services are working together on an approach that will utilize shared services, while still meeting local and individual needs.

Fotonovellas are widely-read short stories that are commonly used in the Latino community to inform readers through use of the characters' dialogues, rather than an impersonal, detailed brochure. Typically, stories present information in the context of a step-by-step "how to" that follows the characters as they find and access services, and shows how their lives are improved after accessing services. This format helps to overcome not only language barriers, but also cultural barriers that often stand between the Latino population and the health and human services they need.
