The YLC is a private not-for-profit school located in a low income community of Little Haiti, Miami that provides quality education in a familial environment for students K-12 that are challenged with attending public schools.

SFP has created a leadership skills training program that is twofold.

First, college students are recruited to mentor and work with at-risk high school students that are challenged with poverty, parents whose first language is not English, low-income households, diverse cultures, and high-crime neighborhoods. The college mentors bring valuable information and skills to the school students particularly in the areas of math, environmental sciences, social studies, music, arts, and SFP constructs each program based on community need and that gives participants the opportunities to feel the value of helping others and to experience the transformation of their own neighborhoods and communities.

SFP has also developed an Outdoor Learning Lab for K-12 students where they take part in every aspect of creating, implementing, and maintaining an organic garden and the grounds of their school.

Financial Literacy and Community Engagement

In 2008 Service For Peace initiated an innovative Financial Literacy and Community Engagement Pilot After School Program in Stamford and Bridgeport. The impact of this pilot program far exceeded expected results. Twenty-four economics students from Sacred Heart University were trained along with Citi volunteers to conduct eleven training sessions at five moderate income level middle schools in Stamford and one high school in Bridgeport. The training empowered students to learn the importance of savings, along with an awareness of community needs. The long-term efficacy of this training allowed students to become ambassadors of Financial Literacy and Community Engagement in their homes and communities. The Financial Literacy portion of the training utilized the curriculum for grades 6-8 from the Citi Financial Education Program. The Community Engagement portion involved a Service For Peace curriculum designed to create sustainable social awareness for those in need, and the importance of volunteerism. This program was SFP has established chapters in Nicaragua, Dominican Republic, Honduras, Guatemala, Brazil, Haiti and Paraguay, and is led by a young team whose average age is 26.

Chapters and programs are managed and organized by university students. All locations except for Haiti and Paraguay have established at least one Community of Peace site. Nicaragua has identified two (Crucero and Comunidad los Zarzales) besides the other two they already have. Guatemala, Honduras and Brazil have identified one. The Dominican Republic chapter has identified two: Yamasa and Monte Plata.

In 2009, six international Global Peace Maker programs were held: three in the Dominican Republic, and one in Nicaragua, Honduras and Guatemala. During the year, four new Service For Peace student clubs were successfully created: 2 in schools, and 2 in universities.

A significant development in the region took place at this years United Nations DPI Annual Conference in Mexico, when SFP team members from the LAC region presented the Community of Peace initiative. The theme of this year's conference was "Disarm Now, for Peace and Development" and the SFP presentation was chosen through a highly selective process. The SFP representatives were invited to a private evening reception by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, in which only a few organizations were selected to network and learn from other organizations in the region.

LAC staff in the region have developed unique partnerships in their respective nations, partnering with political leaders, governmental institutions, First Ladies offices, Mayor's offices, United Nations Volunteers, UNDP, Rotary Clubs, Partners for the Americas, Wal-Mart, etc.

In Haiti, there was a growing SFP presence through Hispaniola International University, and a Community Clinic. SFP LAC developed an ongoing volunteer program to begin in late October 2009, with the intention of having the first GPM in the country in 2010.

Africa

SFP now has chapters in Cote DIvoire, Democratic Republic of the Congo, Sierra Leone, Ghana, Kenya and Gambia.

2009 was an important year for the SFP Chapter in Cote d'Ivoire. The chapter established higher credibility with the community as a result of conducting four one-day projects and two major international projects. The first one, a Summer of Service program, June 21 to July 10, had 22 European and 20 local participants. The second one was the first Global Peacemaker program in Africa welcoming 10 international volunteers from the United States, Europe, Canada and Ghana, and 14 local volunteers. The projects founded Communities of Peace in two different sites: Amanvi and Blanfla localities.

During the year, the chapter held a number of Leadership, Service-Learning and Community Service training sessions for students and NGOs. A total number of 200 people were trained.

In terms of partnerships, the chapter increased the number of partners and maintained its good partnerships with UNV and other UN Agencies. Due to the high success of its training center in Bouake, the former headquarters of the rebel zone, SFP in Cote d'Ivoire plans to open a training center in Abidjan, the capital city. The training center in Bouake opened in 2007. The center trains ex-rebels and youth in peace and community building, and service activities.

The chapter in Ghana is the most active after Cote d'Ivoire. The chapter has good partnerships with universities. Students are really committed and happy to be part of SFP Campus Corps. A total of 10 Campus Corps clubs are already established in Ghana.

In the summer of 2009, the Chapter organized its first international program building a classroom, which attracted 22 volunteers from Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Korea, Austria, France, Germany, England, Scotland and Ireland and 18 local volunteers from Ghana, most of whom members of the Campus Corps clubs.

A region-wide signature program developed during 2009. This is the Dream Catcher Library project in Mindanao around which the SFP chapters in Nepal, Korea, Thailand and the Philippines are joining forces. This project provides libraries with books and computers for children and youth in difficulties to receive an equal opportunity of education so they can broaden their horizons and find ways to improve their own lives and the life of their communities.

During the course of 2009, both Dr Lenaghan, representing the SFP Board, and Dr Phillips, travelled to Mindanao to lay the groundwork for SFPs work there. SFP developed a peace curriculum that is being used in Mindanao's schools. During his visit there in September, Dr. Phillips described the content of the curriculum to Dr. Estrella Babano who is the regional director of education for region 10 in Mindanao. She has endorsed the plan to make the curriculum project a joint project with the Department of Education and SFP. Dr Phillips will return in November to present the curriculum and conduct "train the trainer" sessions for the teachers.

During 2009, SFP identified a highly qualified SFP representative in Mindanao who can work with Dr. Babano and others. Muhammad Riza Dalkilic is an Islamic scholar and President of the Risale-I Nur Institute. Riza is an educational and training innovator, a business
