Central Department of Sociology and Anthropology
Kirtipur
Kathmandu, Nepal

On June 2, 2009 the Wenner-Gren Foundation awarded a grant in the amount of $125,000 to the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at Tribhuvan University. Through a collaboration with Cornell University, the department aims to bring improve the theoretical and methodological training of Ph.D students and upgrade the credentials of current faculty who do not hold a Ph.D. The IDG grant will be used to upgrade the current curriculum, provide modest support for research, intensify international exposure and exchange and build up the library and electronic resources. Currently in Nepal, the research agenda in anthropology is frequently determined by NGOs and development agencies where many of the students and faculty gain their experience. The IDG will allow more freedom for the department itself to determine its academic concerns. A primary aim is to significantly improve the theoretical and methodological capacity of the anthropology department as apposed to applied/development anthropology, thereby allowing the department to be competitive and contribute internationally.

WENNER-GREN INSTITUTIONAL DEVELOPMENT GRANT
BUILDING ANTHROPOLOGY IN MONGOLIA
(ANNUAL REPORT FOR THE YEAR OF 2009)

Achievements in the academic year of 2008 to 2009

Background

In 2009 the project implementation conducted as we planned in the project proposal. According to the original plan, four of our staff members spent sometimes in Cambridge, first, to set a curriculum of doctoral studies under the consultancy of Cambridge professors, second to develop six course syllabi which will be taught in Mongolia from the academic year from 2009 to 2010, and third, to purchase books for those courses. The other minor task was to purchase a PC and a printer to supply doctoral students with better facilities.

Members in the project implementation team

We have so far around eight anthropologists participated at the project. Four of them are our departmental staff members who were introduced in the project proposal. On the other hand from Cambridge side four anthropologists started to participate. They are all members of Mongolia and Inner Asia Studies Unit, Social Anthropology Department, Cambridge, namely, Prof C Humphrey, Dr David Sneath, chair of Social Anthropology, Dr E Bulag, and Dr H Diemberger. They are all anthropologist specialised on Mongolia and Inner Asia studies. The duty of our Cambridge partners is to consult on curriculum and syllabi designs, and supervise our doctoral students and hold a membership in the board of doctoral committee.

Curriculum development

In January and February 2009 Dr D Bumochir, the present chair and the coordinator of the project, spent two months in Cambridge and arrived there one month earlier than the rest of the group to develop the curriculum under the supervision of Cambridge collaborators. Discussion on curriculum continued after the rest of the group joined and we all agreed to on ten courses which we planned to develop along the project implementation. In the first place, the six courses we selected are the following courses

Dr N Danzan prepared two courses: Inner Asian kinship, family and gender
Urban Anthropology Dr S Dulam prepared two courses
Mongolian symbolism and anthropology
Inner Asian religion and ritual Dr B Dulam prepared one course
Research design and methodology Dr L Munkh-Erdene prepared one course Theories of Ethnicity and Nationalism

All the above courses will be taught at the department for our new doctoral researchers starting from the academic year of 2009 to 2010

Library resource collection

According to the original plan we calculated 500USD to collect books for each course we are developing along the project. Since we are developing six new courses we have altogether 3000 USD this for book allowance. Our staff members visited Cambridge were in charge of purchasing books and making photocopies of relevant articles and chapters for courses they were obliged to develop. Altogether we managed to buy around 30 books, made photocopies of about 20 articles and chapters. From 3000USD we also had to send all the books buy cargo to Mongolia which was costly.

Purchase of Equipments

As we planned in the project the department bought a PC (DELL, Dual Core) and printer (Canon LBP 2900) for the use of new doctoral researchers.

Plan for the academic year of 2010 to 2011

Doctoral students

We are planning to elect four doctoral students in the October 2009 as we planned. The announcement is now available in the departmental and university websites. It will also published in one of the national newspapers. The election will happen in the mid of October 2009. All four students will get a stipend from Wenner-Gren and two of them are coming to Cambridge to work for a term. As we discussed with Mongolia and Inner Asia Studies Unit, they are capable of hosting our students after December 2009. Therefore we are planning to send two of them to Cambridge in Lent term (from mid December 2009 to mid March 2010).

Curriculum development

In the project we planned to develop two more courses syllabi in the year of 2010 to 2011. This time Dr Bumochir Dulam (myself) will spend about a month in Cambridge to prepare two course syllabi such as Power and Politics in Mongolia and Inner Asia, and Anthropology and Area Studies (Anthropology of China, Russia, Central Asia etc). Both will be supervised by Dr Bulag and Dr Sneath. The visit will happen while the two doctoral researchers reside in Cambridge in order to assist them. Book allowance expenses will follow the development of two courses.

Purchase of equipments

Accordingly to the project we are purchasing three personal computers for the use of our doctoral students.

Anthropological Doctoral Program at the Museum of Anthropology, Universidad Nacional de Córdoba, Argentina

Annual progress report 2009

The Anthropological Doctoral Program at the Museum of Anthropology of Córdoba aims to prepare professionals for research and academic education in Anthropological Sciences, with specialized training in the three classic sub-areas of research: social anthropology, archaeology and bioanthropology.

As we mentioned in the application to the IDG, doctoral studies are oriented towards intensive theoretical and practical training in order to produce trained professionals who will be able to undertake independent research projects, exercise leadership of scientific research teams, communicate their research results, and teach at the university. It is hoped that through this program the students will also acquire various experiences in diverse academic contexts and form external relationships which will open possibilities for exchange and dialogue with other anthropologists, while generating their own future networks. It is hoped that this would impact positively on their education and in their personal and institutional performance.

During the first 9 months of development of the program it can be said that we have accomplished most the goals for the first year, while the other ones are currently on execution or planned for the next two months, according to the proposed schedule.

Specifically, during this period, we have conducted the following activities:

- a We have completed all legal and administrative obligations of the doctorate, in accordance with existing regulations regarding accreditation of doctoral programs both by the Universidad Nacional de Córdoba and the Comisión Nacional de Acreditación Universitaria (National University Accreditation Commission) of the Ministerio de Educación (Education Ministry).
- b We have acquired equipment, both for classroom and field work (including two notebooks, a LCD projector, a GPS, digital recorder, a camera), and some furniture (a desk and bookshelves).
- c We have acquired 27 books, in Spanish and in English, for updating the library of the Museo de Antropología.
- d On June we applied and won a grant from the National Ministry of Science and Technology to invite one of the teachers of our staff, Dr. Beatriz Alasia de Heredia, from Brazil, that will allow us to invite her to stay at Córdoba three other times during this year.
- e From June to August we opened the enrolment of students. We have 70 students enrolled and 55 eligible (39 in Social Anthropology, 14 in Archaeology and 2 in Bioanthropology). Non eligible students were invited to join next year, after an introductory training in anthropology. Students come not only from Córdoba, but also from other provinces of the country (Mendoza, Catamarca, Buenos Aires, Santa Fe, Jujuy) and from abroad (Peru, Colombia, Chile, Paraguay and one Argentine student living in Dubai).

- f With the teachers of the Doctorate we planned the courses for this year and the next one (see Appendix A)
- g We began with the courses, one given in July, and three more will be dictated before the end of the year
  - i Dr Benjamin Alberti, from Farmingham College, USA, taught a course "New Approaches to Materiality in Archaeology"
  - ii Dr Beatriz Alasia de Heredia, from the Universidade Federal do Rio de Janeiro, Brasil, wil teach a course on Community, Locality and Nation, from September 21st to the 30th
  - iii Dr Kelly from the University of Wyoming, USA, will teach a course on Hunter-Gatherer ecology from October 19th to the 30th.
  - iv Dr Conrado Rodríguez Martín, from the Instituto Canario de Bioantropología, Spain, will teach a course on Forensic Bioanthropology in November
- h In October and November, they will be held two seminars in charge of Dr Beatriz Alasia de Heredia, centered on research in social anthropology and aiming to coordinate a research group in political anthropology with some students

2010

For the next year we will continue with the planned actions in our proposal in the IDG, and until now we have not planned to introduce any significant change

For 2010 we proposed to

- continue with the courses, given by both local and guest instructors,
- execute research seminars in order to prepare students for field work
- acquire new books
- acquire materials for preventive conservation for archaeological and ethnographical materials

As we put in the IDG application, we aim that at the end of this year the students would have continued with their systematic training, with first-hand knowledge from international faculty members conducting research in the various branches of anthropology. It is hoped that this will help them define their field of interest and promote links with teachers and research projects, so that the following year can begin with a more focused definition of their own object of study. The continuous updating of the library will enhance the possibilities of the students to prepare for their exams as well as their future theses

Interim Project report on Religious Narratives of Uyghurs in Xinjiang

Rahile Dawut

Center for Anthropology and Folklore

School of Humanities

Xinjiang University, China

My project work is nearing completion. With the generous support of the RAI during these two years of project work, we have not only documented a lots of disappearing religion rituals; even more importantly, we have gotten to know a great deal of local knowledge related to religion and other field. This project has been our best chance so far to improve our understanding of religion life of Uyghurs in Xinjiang.

Unfortunately, during these two years, various circumstances in China and in Xinjiang particularly affected our field work to rural area in Xinjiang at some degree. After a riot in Urumqi on July 5, 2009 in Xinjiang, conducted field research in rural area become very difficult. We have to postpone some of our field work since the hash political situation in this region. From July, 2009 to the June, 2010, the Internet has been completely unavailable throughout Xinjiang, and as a result, we cannot access the research materials related to our field. Despite these various obstacles and limitations, we did our best to document more religious voices of disappearing culture.

One of my project work is about Shrine(Mazar) visitation among the Uyghurs. Big shrine visitation provide a space for epic narration, songs, and poetry related to Islam and Sufism, and that, due to Xinjiang's political environment and the fact that at this point most performers of these works are elderly, these cultural aspects are in danger of disappearing; therefore, I set aside a great deal of time to record these examples of folk culture.

My next focus is about Sufi Sisterhood among the Uyghurs.

Since the Sufi sisterhood and religious rituals regarded as superstition and illegal religious activities and banned in many area their cultural space withdrew and the practices associated with them are quickly disappearing. Some Sufi Sisterhood begin to perform their rituals underground. So we spent an amount of time to document the practices, narratives, and rituals which are still performed among the women Sufi communities.

In order to obtain the most comprehensive record of Mazar and women Sufi practices, we carried out ethnographic research in three traditional Uyghur centers---Hotan, Kashgar and Turpan. We documented one big shrine festival and oral epic narratives related to religion in Hotan, two women's sufi sisterhood in Kashgar, one women's Sufi sisterhood and one man's Sufi brotherhood in Turpan. In all of them, we recorded and videotaped the rituals, the music and songs, the chants, the narratives, the dance, and other artistic expressions. Now we are going to write ethnographies on Religious life of Uyghurs according to the findings.

We have edited video and audio recordings of some of the materials we had. Our interview materials have also been fully edited and organized. Now we are on the process of making a number of ethnographic films on the basis of these materials. We are also currently preparing these materials for use as a teaching resource. We are going to work on English translation of the ethnographic materials in the coming months. At present, I have published two articles on the basis of this research.

Since our video documentations comes from different Sufi groups and Mazars in different area so how to organise these video materials and make an ethnographic film become a problem we face currently. Maybe it is better to make three different ethnographic film according to the contents.

Since it is difficult to find research materials published in English related to my field here in my university and also I need time for writing up my project I would like to go to Anthropology department of Kent University on December this year for a few months. I expect to complete my project by February, 2010.

Subject: RAI Fellowship in Urgent Anthropology Extension Request

I am writing to request a no-cost extension to my RAI fellowship in urgent anthropology through October 2010 in order to complete final fieldwork this summer and write-up of my project results this autumn. My project, "Using Local Knowledge to Assess Environmental Change and Restoration in Coastal Marine Ecosystems," seeks to contribute to our need to better understand and management changing coastal marine ecosystems of vital importance to indigenous peoples of the North Pacific. To date my investigations into marinescapes in Southeast Alaska and Sakhalin Island, Siberia have revealed, among other things, critical connections between indigenous areas of historical occupation and use and contemporary coastal hotspots for biocultural diversity and ecological restoration. As testimony to the urgency of the project, recently, I was invited to testify in front of a special session of the Alaska State Legislature's Fisheries Committee on my findings concerning the depleted status of Pacific herring, a critical biological foundation and cultural keystone species, and its effects on coastal ecosystems.

Unfortunately, due to recent volcano activity, which grounded flights in the UK for parts of this spring, I was not able to complete a planned fieldwork trip to Alaska, and have rescheduled the trip for July and August 2010, along with a second trip to Siberia. Upon completion of this fieldwork and compilation of the results, I propose to submit my final report by 1 November 2010.

Also, please note I have recently accepted a permanent post in the UK, as Senior Research Fellow and MSc Course Director at the Environmental Change Institute, School of Geography and Environment, University of Oxford. My full contact details are listed below.

Thank you, again, for this generous fellowship which has afforded me an opportunity to pursue this urgent project. If you have any questions about my progress to date, or timeline for completion of the project, please do not hesitate to contact me.

This provision is intended to apply to the full extent, but only to the extent, permitted by applicable law. This provision is in addition to and shall not affect any other rights to which the individuals involved or the Corporation may be entitled, except that no individual shall be entitled to be reimbursed or otherwise to recover twice for a single cost, expense, or liability. "Costs, expenses, and liabilities" covered hereunder include, but are not limited to, attorneys' fees, court costs, judgments, penalties, interests, and amounts reasonably incurred in settlement of claims. Indemnification may include payments incurred in defending any claim, action, or proceedings, in advance of final determination of a person's right to indemnification, upon the undertaking, in a form acceptable to and acknowledged by the Corporation, by the person indemnified to engage legal counsel acceptable to the Corporation and to repay such payments if it ultimately shall be determined that such person is not entitled to indemnification hereunder.

(4) Denial and Withdrawal of Indemnification. Upon the recommendation of the Executive Committee of the Board, of the President or of the Vice President for Finance, the disinterested members of the Board shall consider whether a person otherwise entitled to or extended indemnification shall have it withdrawn. The disinterested members of the Board may deny or withdraw indemnification with respect to any matter in which it is determined by them that the person did not act in good faith or in a manner he or she reasonably believed to be in the best interests of the Corporation. In addition, with respect to any costs, expenses, or liabilities arising out of criminal proceedings, indemnification may be denied or withdrawn if a person of ordinary prudence under similar circumstances reasonably should have known that such conduct was unlawful. In the event disinterested members do not constitute a quorum of the full Board, the determination shall be made by written opinion of legal counsel engaged for that purpose.

(5) Conditional Indemnification. In advance of a determination of indemnification, the Corporation may grant conditional indemnification of fees and expenses incurred by the person in defending any claim, action, or proceedings, upon the undertaking, in a form acceptable to the Corporation, by the person to engage legal counsel acceptable to the Corporation and to reimburse the Corporation for such payments if it ultimately shall be determined or decided that such person is not to be indemnified hereunder.

(6) Retroactivity, etc. This article shall apply retroactively to potential liabilities incurred prior to the date of its adoption, and shall inure to the benefit of the heirs, executors, or administrators of any person indemnified hereunder.

(7) Not Exclusive This article shall not be exclusive of any other rights to which persons may be entitled by law, agreement or otherwise.

(8) Private Foundation Status. No indemnification shall be provided hereunder to the extent that such indemnification would result in the imposition of tax under section 4941 of the Code.

(9) Procedure for Indemnification. Any indemnification or advance of expenses under this Article shall be made only against a written request thereof (together with supporting documentation) submitted by or on behalf of the person seeking indemnification or an advance of expenses. Except as provided in paragraph (5) of this Article, indemnification may be sought by an eligible person under this Article in respect of a proceeding only to the extent that both the liabilities for which indemnification is sought and all portions of the proceeding relevant to the determination of whether the person has satisfied any appropriate standard of conduct have become final. A person seeking indemnification may seek to enforce such person's rights to indemnification (as the case may be) in the Delaware Court of Chancery to the extent all or any portion of a requested indemnification has not been granted within 90 days of the submission of such request. All expenses (including reasonable attorneys' fees) incurred by such person in connection with successfully establishing such person's right to indemnification under this Article, in whole or in part, shall also be indemnified by the Corporation.

The rights to indemnification provided by this Article shall be deemed to be separate contract rights between the Corporation and each Trustee and officer who serves in any such capacity at any time while these provisions as well as the relevant provisions of the DGCL are in effect, and no repeal or modification of any of these provisions or any relevant provisions of the DGCL shall adversely affect any right or obligation of such Trustee or officer existing at the time of such repeal or modification with respect to any state of facts then or previously existing or any proceeding previously or thereafter brought or threatened based in whole or in part upon any such state of facts. Such "contract rights" may not be modified retroactively as to any present or former Trustee or officer without the consent of such Trustee or officer.
