In prior years the manager of the foundation has always made distributions to qualified charities prior to year end and prior to knowing the ending market value of the assets. The amount distributed has always been at least 100% of the estimated net income for the year. Since the foundation has always earned more than 5% of market value, this method of determining distributions has resulted in no excise tax being due. Rates of earnings on investments have fallen drastically in recent years and since the rate of earnings has fallen below 5% it has resulted in the foundation distributing less than the required distribution.

The violation was not due to willful neglect and was due to reasonable cause. The foundation will resolve the deficiency for all years within 30 days of filing the return by making appropriate distributions. The foundation has also changed its method of determining the amount of distribution each year.
