When the members of the Committee have thoroughly assured themselves that they understand what you hope to accomplish with the proposed grant, they will evaluate your proposal in the light of other applications for available funds and make a recommendation to our Board of Directors.

The members of the Board of Directors evaluate each proposal independently, take the Committee's recommendations into consideration, and vote either to approve (with or without conditions), to reject, or to table the grant proposal. The results of the Board of Directors' review will be communicated to you as soon as a decision has been reached.

F. Grant Monitoring

The trust placed in The Bos Family Foundation by its own donors and contributors, as well as its status as a tax-exempt charitable organization, requires the highest fiscal integrity and oversight of its funds. The Foundation has been given the stewardship of charitable dollars and, in return, its Directors are expected to ensure their proper and lawful use by our grantees. Our requirements from grantees are simple. First, the grant must be used in accordance with the purposes set forth in the grant proposal, for purposes clearly identifiable as charitable under applicable federal and state laws. Any variation from the proposal must be approved in advance by us. Secondly, where projects or programs are operated for less than anticipated budgeted figures, all excess (unexpended) funds must be returned to the Foundation. And thirdly, all grant recipients must submit a "mid-term" and final narrative report describing the progress of the program or project, as well as financial reports on how the appropriated funds are being used. These reports are reviewed by us to see if the program or project is progressing as anticipated and to verify that the expenditures are in accordance with the grant proposal. If these reports are not submitted or reflect discrepancies, the additional distribution of funds will be held in abeyance until satisfactory reports are received or the discrepancy is removed. Where necessary, it may be necessary to cancel a grant entirely. Such action, however, is highly undesirable for the Foundation as well as for the grantee. The Bos Family Foundation, however, must always stand firmly on its obligation to ensure that all grants are spent solely in furtherance of charitable purposes. To do otherwise, would be to fail the public trust that our donors and contributors have invested in the Foundation.

G. Submission of Application

All applications should be mailed to the following address:

F. GRANT MONITORING

The trust placed in The Bos Family Foundation - by its own donors and contributors and its status as a tax-exempt charitable organization - requires the highest fiscal integrity. We have been given the "stewardship" of charitable dollars; in return, we are expected to ensure their proper and lawful use by our grantees.

Our requirements from grantees are simple. First, the grant must be used in accordance with the purposes set forth in the grant proposal, for purposes clearly identifiable as charitable under applicable federal and state laws. Any variation from the proposal must be approved in advance by us. Secondly, where projects or programs are operated for less than anticipated budgeted figures, all excess (unexpended) funds must be returned to us. And thirdly, all Specific Object Grant recipients must submit a "mid-term" and final narrative report describing the progress of the program or project, as well as financial reports on how the appropriated funds are being used. These reports are reviewed by us to see if the program or project is progressing as anticipated and to verify that the expenditures are in accordance with the grant proposal. If these reports are not submitted or reflect discrepancies, the additional distribution of funds will be held in abeyance until satisfactory reports are received or the discrepancy is removed.

With respect to Scholarship Grants, the Foundation will arrange to receive an objective report of the grant recipient's courses taken (if any) and grades received (if any) in each academic period. This report must be verified by the educational institution attended by the grantee and will be obtained at least once a year. Where study at an institution does not involve the taking of courses but the preparation of research papers or projects, such as the writing of a doctoral thesis, the Foundation will require a brief report from the institution on the progress of the paper or project at least once a year. Such a report must be approved by the faculty member supervising the grantee or by another appropriate official of the institution. Upon completion of a grantee's study at an educational institution, a final report also will be obtained. However, if the Foundation pays the scholarship or fellowship directly to the educational institution, the reports may not be required.

Sometimes, we will call for an independent audit, and on rare occasions, it may be necessary to cancel a grant entirely. Such action, however, is highly undesirable for us as well as for the grantee. The Bos Family Foundation, however, must always stand firmly on its obligation to ensure that all grants are spent solely in furtherance of the charitable purposes for which the funds were given to us. To do otherwise, would be to fail the public trust that our donors and contributors have invested in us.

I. GRANTS TO INDIVIDUALS

The Bos Family Foundation (the "Foundation") anticipates that it may from time to time make grants to individuals in the form of Scholarship Grants (to assist grantees in furthering their education) and Necessity Grants (to assist grantees in obtaining certain basic necessities of life, such as food, clothing, shelter, health care, child care and transportation). Recognizing that, under Internal Revenue Code §4945(d)(3), a grant to an individual for travel, study or any similar purpose is a taxable expenditure unless the grant satisfies §4945(g), the Foundation shall ensure that its individual grants are awarded on an objective and nondiscriminatory basis pursuant to a procedure approved in advance by the IRS, and in addition, that one of the following three conditions are met:

1. The grant constitutes a scholarship or fellowship grant which would be subject to the provisions of §117(a) and is to be used for study at an educational organization described in §170(b)(1)(A)(ii);
2. The grant constitutes a prize or award which is subject to the provisions of §74(b) (without regard to paragraph (3) thereof), and the recipient of such prize or award is selected from the general public; or
3. The grant is awarded for the purpose of achieving a specific objective, producing a report or other similar product, or improving or enhancing a literary, artistic, musical, scientific, teaching, or other similar capacity, skill or talent of the grantee.

The Foundation is required to obtain advance approval from the Internal Revenue Service of its grantmaking procedures with respect to such grants to individuals.

Accordingly, the Foundation, in conjunction with the filing of Form 1023 and Schedule H thereto, sets forth the specific grantmaking procedures to be followed by the Foundation with respect to grants to individuals.

II. GRANTMAKING PROCEDURES FOR GRANTS TO INDIVIDUALS

The Foundation will follow the specific procedures set forth below in making grants to individuals. The Foundation expressly reserves the right to impose additional reasonable restrictions and/or requirements upon the selection of grantees and the administration of grants to individuals but in no event shall such additional restrictions and/or requirements be less stringent than those set forth below.

A. Scholarship Grants.

1. Scholarship Grants Defined.

The Foundation will make Scholarship Grants to individuals pursuant to IRC §4945(d)(3), subject to the additional requirements imposed by IRC §§4945(g); specifically, these grants will be made to help finance the cost of the grantee's educational needs.

2. The Selection Process

Selection of grantees shall be made by the Foundation on an objective and non-discriminatory basis. In the case of grants based on proposals submitted by individuals, the basis for an award will include the merits of a proposal, the relationship of the purpose of a proposal to the Foundation's program activities, projects or areas of Foundation interest, and their priority in relation to other demands on Foundation funds. On the basis of these criteria, an individual grantee may be selected (i) from a group of qualified candidates; or (ii) without reference to a group of candidates because the individual is particularly qualified to carry out the charitable or educational purposes of the grant or it is otherwise evident that the selection is particularly calculated to effectuate the exempt purpose of the grant rather than to benefit particular persons.

3. Nomination and Application for Grants.

a. The Foundation may announce in its annual reports or in other general and widely disseminated publications that, as part of the Foundation's activities, it will make grants to individuals for scholarships, fellowships, internships, travel, study, research, or similar activities intended to improve the recipient's competence, enable him or her to develop his or her career or professional interests, or enhance his or her contributions to the community with which he or she is associated. These announcements will specify how nominations or applications may be submitted. The Foundation will consider nominations of individuals by:

(i) sponsoring institutions described in Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code (e.g., educational institutions);

(ii) governments and governmental agencies or instrumentalities; and

(iii) persons not affiliated with the Foundation with relevant experience and involvement in the nominee's community.

The Foundation also will consider applications received directly from individuals seeking grants.

b. All nominations or applications must be submitted in writing and are subject to review by the Foundation's staff. Nominations and applications that meet appropriate standards of quality and are relevant to the Foundation's program interests are eligible for selection. From among those who are nominated or who apply, and within budget limitations set by the Foundation's Board of Trustees, Foundation staff members shall select grant recipients, with advice, as appropriate, of experts or persons outside the Foundation with relevant personal and/or professional experience. Nominations from sponsoring institutions which are described in Section 501(c)(3) or which are governments or governmental agencies or instrumentalities do not require further external review. In all other cases, the Foundation shall require written endorsement of the nominee from at least one expert or person with relevant personal and/or professional experience who are not employees of the Foundation. In exceptional cases where it is not practicable to obtain objective external endorsements because of the particular and personal circumstances of the individual under consideration, the grant shall be approved only by majority vote of the Board of Directors of the Foundation. The Foundation will take steps to ensure that persons engaged in the selection process are not in a position to derive direct or indirect private benefit from the selection of certain potential grantees over others. Employees of the Foundation are not eligible for grants to individuals awarded on the basis of individual nomination or application.

4. Criteria for Selection of Scholarship Grantees.

a. The criteria to be utilized for selecting grantees of scholarships or fellowships and internship awards include, but are not limited to: prior academic performance; additional biographical information regarding a potential grantee's career experiences, academic experiences and any other relevant experiences; and recommendations from a potential grantee's instructors and any others who have knowledge of the potential grantee's capabilities. Financial need may be considered as an additional criterion but not as a required criterion. A scholarship recipient must be capable of matriculating at an educational institution described in IRC §170(b)(1)(A)(ii).

b. An express condition of each scholarship grant may be that the scholarship grant will be used only for qualified tuition and related expenses within the meaning of IRC §117(b)(2), and for room and board; specifically, the scholarship grant may be used solely for: (i) tuition and fees required for the enrollment or attendance of the student at a qualifying institution; (ii) fees, books, supplies, and equipment required for courses of instruction at such an educational institution; and (iii) room and board. The scholarship grant may be further expressly conditioned such that no part of the grant shall be used as payment for teaching, research, or other services by the scholarship recipient as a condition for receiving the scholarship.

5. Terms And Conditions of Scholarship Grants.

The terms and conditions of each grant to an individual shall be contained in a letter sent to and countersigned by each recipient of such grant. Terms and conditions include: specific purpose of the grant, its duration, the total amount of the grant, a budget and requirements for narrative and financial reports, including due dates for such reports.

6. Procedure for Exercising Supervision over Individual Grants

a. Scholarships and fellowships at educational institutions.

(1) With respect to scholarship or fellowship grants, the Foundation arranges to receive an objective report of the grantee's courses taken (if any) and grades received (if any) in each academic period. Such a report must be verified by the educational institution attended by the grantee and shall be obtained at least once a year. Where study at an institution does not involve the taking of courses but the preparation of research papers or projects, such as the writing of a doctoral thesis, the Foundation requires a brief report from the institution on the progress of the paper or project at least once a year. Such a report must be approved by the faculty member supervising the grantee or by another appropriate official of the institution. Upon completion of a grantee's study at an educational institution, a final report also shall be obtained. However, the Foundation's review of a grantee's progress will not be limited to or based solely upon the grantee's grades. The Foundation also will make a subjective determination based on each grantee's individual circumstances, abilities and needs, taking a broad view designed to determine whether the grantee is putting forth his or her best efforts commensurate with his or her abilities to meet the Foundation's expectations with respect to that particular grantee.

(2) The Foundation does not consider it necessary to obtain the foregoing objective reports if the following conditions are met:

(i) the grant is a scholarship or fellowship subject to the provisions of Section 117(a) of the Internal Revenue Code and is to be used for study at an educational institution which normally maintains a regular faculty and curriculum and normally has a regularly organized body of students in attendance at the place where its educational activities are carried on;

(ii) the Foundation pays the scholarship or fellowship directly to the educational institution;

(iii) the educational institution agrees to use the grant funds to defray the grantee's expenses or pay funds to the grantee only if and while the grantee is enrolled at the educational institution and the grantee's standing at such institution is consistent with the purpose and conditions of the grant.

7. Procedures For Review Of Grantee Reports, For Investigation Where Diversion Of Grant Funds From Their Specified Purposes Is Indicated, And For Recovery Of Diverted Grant Funds

a. Review of grantee reports.

A staff member of the Foundation shall monitor and follow the progress of the individual grant. Such monitoring duties shall include (but need not be limited to): reviewing each report submitted by the educational institution or individual; determining whether the grant purposes are being or have been fulfilled; and looking into any issues or questions requiring further scrutiny or investigation.

b. Investigation where diversion of grant funds from their specified purposes is indicated.

(1) Where reports to the Foundation or other information (including failure to submit reports after a reasonable time has elapsed after their due date) indicates that all or any part of grant funds are not being used for the purposes of the grant, the Foundation shall initiate an investigation. While conducting the investigation, the Foundation shall withhold further payments to the extent possible until it has determined that no part of the grant has been used for improper purposes and until any delinquent reports have been submitted.

If the Foundation determines that any part of the grant has been used for improper purposes, the Foundation shall take all reasonable and appropriate steps to recover diverted grant funds or to insure the restoration of diverted funds and the rededication of any other grant funds held by the grantee back to the intended purposes of the grant. These steps may include legal action unless such action, in all probability, would not result in the satisfaction of execution of a judgment. Legal action will not be considered reasonable and appropriate if, on the advice of legal counsel, the Foundation considers the costs of maintaining an action to be excessive (in gross or relative to the value of the diverted grant funds), or there is a little likelihood that a favorable judgment would be obtained.

(2) If the Foundation determines that any part of the grant has been used for improper purposes but the grantee has not previously diverted grant funds to any use not in furtherance of a purpose specified in the grant, the Foundation shall withhold further payments on that particular grant until (i) it has received the grantee's assurance that further diversions will not occur, (ii) any delinquent reports have been submitted; and (iii) it has required the grantee to take extraordinary precaution to prevent future diversions from occurring. If the Foundation determines that any part of the grant has been used for improper purposes and the grantee has previously diverted Foundation grant funds, the Foundation shall withhold further payment until the preceding three conditions have been met and the diverted funds have been recovered or restored.

B. Necessity Grants.

1. Necessity Grants Defined.

The Foundation will make Necessity Grants to needy individuals for general charitable purposes within the meaning of IRC §170(c)(2)(B); specifically, these grants will be made to help the grantees meet their basic needs for food, clothing, shelter, health care, child care and transportation. These Necessity Grants are not grants to individuals for study, travel or similar purposes within the meaning of IRC §4945(d)(3) and, as indicated at Treas. Reg. §53.4945-4(a)(3)(i), they are not Taxable Expenditures under IRC §4945(d)(3) and therefore are not subject to the additional requirements of IRC §§4945(g) and (h).

2. The Selection Process.

a. Definition of Needy. For purposes of determining eligibility for Necessity Grants to needy individuals by the Foundation, an individual is "needy" if he lacks any of the necessities of life involving physical, mental or emotional well-being, whether as a result of poverty or as a result of temporary distress. Examples of a needy individual for purposes of this Paragraph include, but are not limited to, an individual who is financially impoverished as a result of low income and lack of financial resources, an individual who temporarily or permanently lacks food or shelter, an individual who temporarily or permanently lacks the means to provide or obtain food or shelter for himself and/or family members who are dependent on him, an individual who is the victim of a natural disaster, an individual who is the victim of a civil disaster and/or civil disturbance, an individual who is temporarily not self-sufficient as a result of a sudden and severe personal or family crisis (such as violent crime, physical abuse, mental abuse, physical illness or mental illness), an individual who is a refugee or immigrant and who is experiencing communication, cultural or financial difficulties as a direct or indirect result of his refugee or immigrant status, a minor child who is not self-sufficient and is not being adequately cared for or provided for by a parent or guardian, and any person who is temporarily or permanently not self-sufficient due to prior institutionalization (such as a former prisoner or a former patient in a mental institution).

b. Grantmaking Criteria. The criteria to be utilized in making Necessity Grants to needy individuals include, but are not limited to: financial need; family circumstances; physical health; and mental health. Necessity Grants will be made to needy individuals who demonstrate a specific need that can be addressed through a cash grant or through a gift of food, clothing, shelter, health care, child care and/or transportation assistance.

c. Conditions on Necessity Grants. A general condition of each non-scholarship grant may be that the grant will be used only for charitable purposes within the meaning of IRC §170(c)(2)(B); specifically, the grant may be used only for: (i) food; (ii) clothing; (iii) costs associated with obtaining, retaining, maintaining or repairing a residence for the recipient and immediate family members who are dependent upon the recipient; (iv) health care; (v) child care; and (vi) transportation required to obtain, secure, maintain or facilitate any of the aforementioned purposes. In addition, a grant recipient must demonstrate to the Foundation's satisfaction that a grant (whether in cash or in kind) made for certain specific need(s) of the grantee will be used solely to address the specific need(s) which enabled the grantee to qualify for the grant.

3. Nomination and Application for Grants.

a. The Foundation may announce in its annual reports or in other general and widely disseminated publications that, as part of the Foundation's activities, it will make Necessity Grants to individuals. These announcements will specify how nominations or applications may be submitted. The Foundation will consider nominations of individuals by:

- (i) sponsoring institutions which are described in Section 501(c)(3);
- (ii) governments and governmental agencies or instrumentalities; and
- (iii) persons not affiliated with the Foundation with relevant experience and involvement in the nominee's community.

b. The Foundation also will consider applications received directly from individuals seeking Necessity Grants.

c. All nominations or applications for Necessity Grants must be submitted in writing and are subject to review by the Foundation's staff. Nominations and applications that meet appropriate standards of quality and are relevant to the Foundation's program interests are eligible for selection. From among those who are nominated or who apply, and within budget limitations set by the Foundation's Board of Trustees, Foundation staff members shall select Necessity Grant recipients, with the advice, as appropriate, of experts or persons outside the Foundation with relevant personal and/or professional experience.

Nominations from sponsoring institutions which are described in Section 501(c)(3) or which are governments or governmental agencies or instrumentalities do not require further external review.

With regard to all other nominations and all direct applications, the Foundation shall require written endorsement of the nominee or applicant from at least one expert or person with relevant personal and/or professional experience who is not an employee of the Foundation. In exceptional cases where it is not practicable to obtain objective external endorsements because of the particular and personal circumstances of the individual under consideration, the grant shall be approved only by majority vote of the Board of Directors of the Foundation. The Foundation will take steps to ensure that persons engaged in the selection process are not in a position to derive direct or indirect private benefit from the selection of certain potential grantees over others. Employees of the Foundation are not eligible for Necessity Grants awarded on the basis of individual nomination or application.

4. Terms And Conditions of Necessity Grants.

The terms and conditions of each Necessity Grant to an individual shall be contained in a letter sent to and countersigned by each recipient of such grant. Terms and conditions include: specific purpose of the grant, duration, total amount, budget and requirements (including due dates) for narrative and financial reports.

5. Monitoring Necessity Grants.

With respect to Necessity Grants to individuals, the Foundation shall require a report from the grantee within sixty (60) days after receipt of the grant on the use of the funds and the progress made toward achieving the purposes for which the grant was made; if the grant is made to address on-going needs, additional reports shall be provided to the Foundation at least once every sixty (60) days after the initial report. Upon completion of the undertaking for which the grant was made or upon such time as the grantee has gained or regained the capability to meet his or her own basic needs without assistance from the Foundation, the grantee shall submit a final report to the Foundation describing the grantee's accomplishments with respect to the grant and/or accounting for the funds received under such grant, as appropriate to the specific nature of the grant.

6. Procedures For Review Of Grantee Reports and Action to Ensure Grant Funds Are Used For Their Specified Purposes

A staff member of the Foundation shall monitor and follow the progress of each Necessity Grant by reviewing each report submitted by the individual and determining whether the grant purposes are being or have been fulfilled; if warranted, the review process also may include an inquiry by the staff member into any issues or questions requiring further scrutiny and, where diversion of grant funds from their specified purposes is indicated, the staff member may take appropriate action to ensure the rededication of grant funds back to the intended purposes of the grant, to withhold further payments until proper remedial action is taken, or to recover diverted funds.

III. GENERAL POLICIES REGARDING ALL GRANTS TO INDIVIDUALS

A. No Grants to "Disqualified Persons."

No grant may be awarded to any member of the Foundation's Board of Trustees, to any "disqualified person" with respect to the Foundation, or for any purpose that is inconsistent with the purposes described in IRC § 170(c)(2)(B).

B. Limitations with Respect to Employees.

These General Procedures shall not apply to any grant program of the Foundation which (i) treats employees of Tayside Associates LLC or its affiliates or their children as a separate group from which grantees will be selected; (ii) limits potential grantees to individuals who are employees of Tayside Associates LLC or its affiliates or their children; or (iii) gives any preference or priority to employees of Tayside Associates LLC or its affiliates or their children over others in selecting grantees. Eligibility and selection standards shall be the same for all applicants.

C. Recordkeeping

The Foundation shall retain complete records in connection with all grants to individuals. These records shall include all information obtained by the Foundation with regard to the evaluation of the qualifications and particular needs of potential grantees, the identification of grantees (including any relationship of any grantee to the Foundation or to a Trustee or officer of the Foundation), the purpose and amount of each grant, the terms of payment of each grant, and any additional information the Foundation secured as part of the grant administration process.

D. Policy and Intent

1. Scholarship Grants. It is intended that all Scholarship Grants awarded under these General Procedures shall be made on an objective and nondiscriminatory basis; that all Scholarship Grants to individuals shall conform to the requirements set forth under IRC §§4945(d)(3) and 4945(g) of the Internal Revenue Code; and that all Scholarship Grants to individuals shall at all times be made and administered in conformance with procedures approved or prescribed by the Treasury Department under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code applicable to grants to individuals by private foundations.

2. Necessity Grants. It is intended that any Necessity Grants to individuals shall at all times be made and administered in conformance with procedures approved or prescribed by the Treasury Department under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code applicable to grants to individuals by private foundations.
