Dear Peggy,

On behalf of the Museum Board of Trustees, members, and staff, we gratefully accept the donation of the Perlan Glider and its accompanying trailer to the Museum of Flight. As requested, credit will be given to "Peggy and Steve Fossett".

The process to formally accession the Perlan Glider into the Museum's collection will occur on October 20, 2009, at the next quarterly meeting of the Board of Trustees at the Museum of Flight, at 3:00 in the afternoon. Although this is the formal vote of the full Board, the Collections Committee and the Executive Committee have already voted to officially recommend that it be included in the collection. The accession number will be 2009-7-22. If you would like to be present at that meeting, and the reception following, please contact me (cell: 206-719-4119).

Also enclosed is an FAA Aircraft Bill of Sale, which we request that you sign and return to us to ensure that the "tail number" of this glider is never given to another owner. Unless we keep the registration current, the FAA is free to reassign the number.

In addition, the Exhibits Committee, Chaired by Trustee Mike Hallman, has recommended that we work with you to develop an exhibit devoted to the life and accomplishments of Steve Fossett. I look forward to discussing this with you. I read Steve's autobiography, and marvel at all he did in his life, even at an early age.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Best regards,

Bonnie J. Dunbar, PhD
President and CEO

Aircraft Appraisal

1995 Glaser-Dirks DG 500M

This appraisal was drafted using current values as well as an in depth review of market values, specific model demands, current supply, and input from professional entities with in the market.

A new DG 500M delivered to the West Coast of the US would run in the vicinity of $180,000.00 ready to fly. There is currently a 2 year waiting list to get one due to its world wide popularity. Used values in this market are driven by demand and supply. The delay in delivery of a new aircraft will keep the values at the higher level.

N577SF was purchased originally purchased for $145,000.00. The engine and propeller were removed and sold for $25,000.00. Then, the aircraft was highly modified, in preparation for pursuing the world glider altitude record. Approximately $50,000 was spent on the modifications.

Based on the current market, and the historical history associated with Steve Fossett and the altitude record of the aircraft, I appraise N577SF, a 1995 DG 500M at:

$350,000.00

Also included is a Cobra 30 ft custom trailer used to transport the aircraft. The trailer would be appraised at:

$9,500.00

This appraisal prepared by Fred Bahr of Bahr Aero LLC and is not a solicitation for aircraft sale.

Sincerely,

Fred Bahr

Fossett, Enevoldson Bringing Record-Setting Glider to EAA AirVenture Oshkosh

The Perlan Glider that less than a year ago lifted Steve Fossett and Einar Enevoldson into the world record books will be on display on AeroShell Square this year during EAA AirVenture Oshkosh 2007. Both pilots will appear throughout the week with the record-setting aircraft, plus will describe the record-breaking flight during a special evening program Friday, July 27, at Theater on the Woods.

The ultra wide-winged (72 ft) aircraft made the world's first stratospheric glider flight on August 29, 2006, over El Calafate, Argentina, soaring to a glider-record altitude of 50,699 feet. The previous altitude record was 49,009 feet, set in 1986 by Robert Harris in California City, California. The record-setting soaring plane is an extensively modified German-built DG-505 high-performance sport glider.

Steve Fossett and Einar Enevoldson in full pressure suits.

"We took a German glider and converted it to fly for altitude," Fossett said. "The primary conversion was to accommodate us flying in full pressure suits, the same pressure suits used by SR-71 and U-2 pilots. We also had to change the instrumentation so it would work at high altitudes in the thin air and very cold temperatures (-55 degrees centigrade)."

The Perlan project proved the theory that unpowered flight to a tremendous altitude could be achieved by literally "surfing" from one mountain wave - high altitude updrafts - to another.

"There are two primary things you can fly a glider on; you can fly it on thermals, where you circle around in a thermal, or you can catch a mountain wave that is generated," he explained. "Glider flights have gone up to the troposphere, perhaps even to the tropopause (boundary region between the troposphere and the stratosphere) but this was the first time a glider has clearly gone into the stratosphere."

The Perlan Glider flying over New Zealand in 2002.

While at Oshkosh, you can catch the two pilots answering questions at the Perlan display, but you won't want to miss their presentation Friday night. "You might see me show up in a full pressure suit!" Fossett said. "But we do have some very interesting slides to show, and to tell how we pursued this project, which was a five-year project."

Fossett, EAA 562868 and a member of the EAA President's Council, is well known for his past world record accomplishments. In 2005, he made the first solo, non-stop around the world flight in the Virgin Atlantic GlobalFlyer, then used that same airplane to claim two absolute distance records in 2006. In 2004 Fossett broke the existing around the world sailing record by six days. And in 2002, he became the first person to solo in a hot-air balloon (Spirit of Freedom) around the world.

The weekend before EAA AirVenture Oshkosh, Fossett will be inducted into the National Aviation Hall of Fame's class of 2007 in Dayton, Ohio. By rule, inductees are honored for achievements made at least five years ago, so Fossett's induction is primarily based on his solo around the world balloon flight.

"This was actually quite a surprise when I was named," he said. "This is really a big honor for me to be included as a permanent fixture in the National Aviation Hall of Fame."

Fossett will fly his Citation 10 to AirVenture this year, an aircraft that has also been on display on AeroShell Square after its around the world, medium-sized airplane record set in 2001-2002.

Apart from pursuing more glider records in the future—"We'll be very active in pursuing the speed and distance records in gliders"—Fossett is currently involved in a project to break the absolute land-speed record in a specially built, jet-powered car that's powered by an after-burning, 45,200 hp J-79 turbojet formerly fitted to an F-4 Phantom. He's shooting to crack the 800 mph barrier and eclipse the current record of 763 mph set in 1997 by Britain's Andy Green.

"We'll get the car out for its initial testing, interestingly, during AirVenture Oshkosh, and then in September or October we hope to have the car up to speed and be able to attempt the record," he said. "And if I don't get it this year, there's always next year.

"I'm not out of ideas, and I expect to be pursuing new adventures for a long time to come."

The Parlan Glider prepares to land.
