ACBS held an annual conference to educate psychologists in the areas of Acceptance and Commitment Therapy (ACT), Relational Frame Theory (RFT), and Contextual Behavioral Science in Enschede, The Netherlands, in July 2009. The conference was organized by the ACBS Board, Executive, and volunteer committees. This conference served to advance the science of psychology through a forum of presentations, workshops, and discussions. It aided psychologists in understanding principles that can be used to help their patients. This conference drew 450 attendees from the UK, US, Australia, The Netherlands, Sweden, Brazil, Canada, France, Ireland, Belgium, Germany, and other countries. This activity was funded through conference registration fees.

4b (Code:) (Expenses $ including grants of $) (Revenue $)
ACBS maintains a website that serves to support the interaction between and the education of psychologists, students, and the public interested in contextual psychology, particularly ACT and RFT. This website is maintained by the ACBS Board (and its members, as it is an interactive site), as well as with help from contracted technical support services. This website is www.contextualpsychology.org. This website helps to disseminate educational resources among ACBS's members as well as the general public. We had over 2,600 website/ACBS members at the end of 2009. The website is funded by membership dues.

20 : 5734112

Part VI, 6: The association's members include student, affiliate, and professional members, who are current, dues paying members of the Association for Contextual Behavioral Science.

Part VI, 7a: The governing board is elected by its current, full student/affiliate/professional members, at the time of the annual elections each Spring.

Part VI, 11a: The Form 990 was provided to current members of the ACBS Board prior to submission. No formal review or comments are required from Board Members. Board Members are invited to review and comment and question the Form 990 to be submitted, but such comments are not required.

Part VI, 12c: Members of the board of directors and key personnel are covered under our conflict of interest policy. Any possible conflicts of interest are discussed by the full board at annual and phone meetings. All potential conflicts are disclosed and discussed by the board of directors to determine if any further, or different course should be taken to ensure fair and equal treatment by the part in question. If the party in question is a voting member of the board, they are required to abstain from deliberating on their own conflict issue, except to give testimony. To date, no conflicts have arisen to warrant follow up action by the board of directors.

Part VI, 19: Our governing documents (by-laws) are available to the general public on our website, along with our conflict of interest policy. ACBS does not make its financial statements available to the public.
