Growing up in Decaturville, TN in the late 60's and early 70's there were not a lot of youth programs in my community. Neighbors, family members and adults in general watched out for each other and for the children. The approach of loving and caring for each other in those days was simply called watching your back. Watching your back was our community program.

The needs of yesterday and those of today are similar yet at the same time they are very different. We were familiar with drug experimentation yet did not know drug addiction as being commonplace, we knew of mothers raising children by themselves, but it was the exception versus the rule, we knew or heard of a few people who did not graduate from high school, but it was not at the alarming rate that it is today. We are faced with the same challenges of old, but at a very different level today.

The Stewart Foundation's focus is all about community, education and leadership. As the level of the challenges and issues our youth face today are different, the foundation's programs and activities are created with this goal in mind -preparing today's youth with the needed tools to move us into tomorrow. My sincere hope is that you will catch the vision and join us.

We exist to be a multi-dimensional leadership program seeking to discover and develop the leader that is in every child. We operate on the premise that every child has a contribution to the successes of tomorrow and we serve to be the key to unlock that potential. Through innovation and a commitment to excellence, our workshops, activities, and events serve to equip our participants with the tools that are necessary to compete on a global level. It is our desire to instill independence, pride and respect while implementing a strong work ethic that encourages education and exposure to an ever-changing world.

The Stewart Foundation Youth Leadership Program focuses on project management as a tool to develop characteristics needed for structured leadership. Our program emphasizes the fundamentals of written/oral communication, organization, and event planning as an avenue to open the gateway of leadership. The youth program develops 9-18 year old males and females with the eye of Growing up in Jacksonville, FL in the late 60's and early 70's there were not a lot of youth programs in my community. Neighbors, family members and adults in general watched out for each other and for the children. The approach of loving and caring for each other in those days was simply called watching your back. Watching your back was our community program.

The needs of yesterday and those of today are similar yet at the same time they are very different. We were familiar with drug experimentation yet did not know drug addiction as being commonplace. We knew of mothers rearing children by themselves, but it was the exception versus the rule. We knew or heard of a few people who did not graduate from high school, but it was not at the alarming rate that it is today. We are faced with the same challenges of old, but at a very different level today.

The Stewart Foundation's focus is all about community, education and leadership. At the level of the challenges and issues our youth face today are different, the Foundation's programs and activities are created with this goal in mind - preparing today's youth with the needed tools to move us into tomorrow. My sincere hope is that you will catch the vision and join us.

We exist to be a multi-dimensional leadership program seeking to discover and develop the leader that is in every child. We operate on the premise that every child has a contribution to the successes of tomorrow and we strive to be the first to unlock that potential. Through innovation and a commitment to excellence, our workshops, activities, and events serve to equip our participants with the tools that are necessary to compete on a global level. It is our desire to instill independence, pride and respect while implementing a strong work ethic that encourages education and exposure to an ever-changing world.

The Stewart Foundation Youth Leadership Program utilizes on project management as a tool to develop characteristics needed for structured leadership. Our program emphasizes the fundamentals of written/verbal communication, organization, and event planning as an avenue to open the gateway of leadership. The Youth Program develops 14-16 year old males and females with the use of
