The health attributes of wild blueberries has been the underpinning of trade and consumer promotion programs since the late 1990's. Key 2009 activities included new releases on the latest blueberry health related scientific discoveries, participation in the American Dietetic Association Food & Nutrition Conference & Expo, and partnering with the Produce for Better Health Foundation. WBANA also helped to organize and sponsor the International Berry Health Benefits Symposium and participated in the Nutrient Rich Coalition. All these activities drive consumer interest and awareness related to wild blueberries.

The Trade Communications focused on the largest market segment that uses wild blueberries. The trade promotion program carried out in 2009 included advertising and trade shows. Multiple wild blueberry ads were placed in trade publications covering the bakery, food service, packaged goods, nutraceuticals, and grocery segments. Trade shows attended included the largest food ingredient/technology show in North America, a health food ingredient show, a produce show and a restaurant trade show. Trade show booth graphics, brochures and other factual literature were developed to support the shows.

Consumer communications is a key component of WBANA's wild blueberry promotion. Over the last 11 years it has focused communication on the consumer to help drive demand for retail frozen wild blueberries as well as
