Summary of Direct Charitable Activities

List the foundation's four largest direct charitable activities during the tax year. Include relevant statistical information such as the number of organizations and other beneficiaries served, conferences convened, research papers produced, etc	Expenses
1 THE COMMUNICATIONS INSTITUTE During 2009 the Foundation continued to sponsor or co-sponsor various elements of the Economics in Public Policy. This undertaking was expressly designed to bring a non-partisan and economic perspective to issues that are often perplexing, divisive, difficult, confusing, or clouded by inadequate or asymmetrical statistical resources. The project generated a series of public forums, invitational seminars, studies, reports, and bi-partisan conferences with Arizona state legislators and other state, county, and city representatives. Topics addressed included Immigration and Economics and Governing Arizona: Perspectives for the Future, an Economic Public Policy Assessment. Approximately 125 individuals directly benefited from these programs by attending them during 2009. Additionally, the information obtained in preparing for these programs continues to provide beneficial research data.	414,104
2 JOINT PROGRAMS WITH THE ARIZONA COUNCIL ON ECONOMIC EDUCATION During 2009 the Foundation continued to sponsor or co-sponsor Economics in Education. This Program is focused on serving the Southern Arizona region with the goal of increasing teacher and student exposure to fundamental principles of economics and to help them develop an appreciation of how economic analysis applies to everyday choices as well as business and public policy issues. This goal is accomplished in several ways: K-12 Teacher Training, Workshops on Contemporary Topics, Online Economics Curricula and Current Events Resources, and Teacher Preparation to help them meet the national and state Economic standards. Approximately 575 individuals directly benefited by attending these programs during 2009 with thousands of students ultimately benefiting.	220,954
3 ECONOMICS UNIVERSITY In 2009 TRBF continued to support the development of an online economics curriculum. The 2009 program supported the development of 20 new lessons and the revision / updating of various other lessons for updated data. The lessons were developed by one current member and one former member of the College Board AP Economics Test Development Committee. The website received between 3,000 and 4,000 page views per school day on average during the past school year. One of the authors used these programs for his university classroom reading assignments, saving his 400 students approximately $40,000 in textbook fees. Additionally, when new lessons / updates are available, teachers within the TRBF, ACEE and EconomicsUniversity databases receive an email notification of their availability.	25,910
4 THE GREATER TUCSON INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC SUMMIT In 2009 TRBF continued to partner with the Federal Reserve Board in presenting teacher professional development training of local teachers for in-classroom presentation of The Greater Tucson International Economics Summit (IES). The IES is a world trade simulation that teaches fundamental economic concepts within the context of international trade. The program challenges high school students to think critically about the costs and benefits of trade while exploring the concept of globalization. IES is a standards-based instructional unit that includes 13 individual lesson plans, providing flexible classroom implementation by easily flowing into an existing course of study or as a stand-alone unit. By utilizing an experience-based learning model, it provides students with a solid foundation in economic fundamentals and incorporates a method for active-learning that is fun as well as challenging. Over the course of the curriculum, students	13,832
