is primarily carried out by scholars with unique professional expertise in their respective fields, through professional consultations and related professional fee costs, collaborating with WI center Director and/or WI Fellows A scholar professor from The University of Notre Dame provided consultative services to continue developing the center WI hosted a consultation "Law and Religion Philosophical and Historical Perspectives," the inaugural event of the Center for Religion and the Constitution This conference brought together leading scholars in the fields of constitutional law , history, and political philosophy to examine church-state legal doctrines in American constitutional thought and discuss how the advance of secularism has changed the social and political dynamic between law and religion in our public life The Witherspoon Institute also created two working groups to study religious liberty 1 Working Group on International Religious Liberty This group has a mix of scholarly and practical field experience, as well as being well versed in domestic and international affairs The group's aim is to develop and promote an understanding of religious freedom, addressing issues of national security that arise in discussions of international religious liberty This working committee has already begun to develop a program that includes promoting new scholarship, using this scholarship to develop public statements and influence public opinion, and developing courses and course material to educate people of influence on religious liberty 2 Working Group on Religious Liberty ("Conscience Protection") This working group is directed a by a Professor from George Mason Law School, hired as a consultant for this task The working group addresses challenges in areas of freedom of exercise of religious commitments in public life The members of this working group include scholars from the University of Notre Dame Law School, University of Villanova Law school and the Catholic University of America In collaboration with "First Things," the Witherspoon Institute has decided to sponsor "The Neuhaus Colloquium on Ethics and Public Affairs" in Fr Neuhaus'honor The Colloquium-- a group of distinguished scholars of law , religion, ethics, and related fields -- will meet once each year in Princeton, to produce publicly accessible scholarly work on timely topics, members include Scholars from the Ethics and Public Policy Center, Stanford University Medical School, Sr Fellow of WI and Professor from Princeton University WI supported a conference on "What are our basic moral responsibilities with regard to migration and immigration" directed by WI Senior Fellow and University of Notre Dame Law School Professor The event was attended by 15 scholars of philosophy, law , sociology and political science and held at the University of Notre Dame OTHER PROGRAM SERVICES 5 The Religion and Civic Society Program In January of 2009 WI appointed a Director of the Project on Islam and Civil Society Amongst the Director's first projects is the creation of a summer seminar program on "Islam and Civil Society", as part of the Schreyer Summer Seminars In addition, the Director attended two conferences on Religious Freedom in China and one in Syria, to help support the work of scholars in those countries interested in Religious Freedom In partnership with the Institute for Theological Inquiry of the Center for Jewish Christian Understanding and Cooperation, there was a meeting of a study group in July, 2009 in Israel, under the direction of a distinguished Rabbi and a prominent scholar The topics under study were "Covenant, Mission and Relation to Other," and "Hope and Responsibility for the Future OTHER PROGRAM SERVICES 6 OTHER PROGRAM SERVICES 7 The Program in Ethics, Culture, and Economic Development WI supported a WI Fellow and Assistant Professor of Sociology at the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill through a grant {$7,150} This Fellow has been carrying out work on religion, international migration and aging, and the impact of these factors in the well being of migrant communities, and how this could helps us understand economic development WI continued supporting the work of the "Latin America Study Group," a group of 12 scholars to study and make recommendations to foster democracy in Latin America Scholars drafted a document to make public recommendations about policy in the region The WI, in conjunction with the Bendheim Center for Finance and the Program in European Politics and Society at Princeton University, organized a study meeting on "Natural Law and Economics" that took place in May, 2009 Under the direction of a WI Fellow , the study meeting responded to the emerging need in the global economy to reconsider the principles on which international order is predicated, including property rights and individual human dignity The aim of the conference was to bring together economists with an interest in policy questions, policy-makers and philosophers in order to think through the underlying rationale for public policy, as well as to elaborate how that rational should effect the design of national legislation and of international institutional responses OTHER PROGRAM SERVICES 8 Program in Bioethics and Human Dignity WI continued its ongoing research on Bioethics primarily by continuing to engage the professional scholarly consultative services of an expert in this field in assisting a Senior Fellow of the Witherspoon Institute in preparing articles for publication, conferences and media interviews OTHER PROGRAM SERVICES 9 Program in Business and Ethics A collection of papers from the 2008 conference on "Rethinking Business Management" was published under the title of "Profit, Prudence and Virtue," Samuel Gregg and Jim Stoner Editors, in 2009 by St Andrews Studies in Philosophy and Public Affairs WI carried out a study commissioned by Ave Maria University for a proposed MBA program that would be consistent with the ideas of recommendations presented in "Rethinking Business Management " An ad hoc committee made up of international scholars and fellows of WI prepared a paper on behalf of WI This study has been submitted to the University for their review and approval
