The Urban Child Institute is committed to improving the health and well being of children in Memphis, TN Currently the focus is on trying to promote the optimization of brain development from conception to three years of age The Urban Child Institute seeks to achieve its goals by focusing internally on data, dissemination, and policy development Externally, TUCI supports research, education, and selective programmatic initiatives that are consistent with our stated goals In 2009, TUCI produced its fourth Data Book The State of Children in Memphis and Shelby County which compiles information about the status of children in Memphis and Shelby County Fifteen thousand copies of the Data Book were distributed and it appears on our website It is used by politicians, policy makers, educators, nonprofit service providers, the faith community and others to inform and influence their respective activities as they relate to our community’s children TUCI fulfills its dissemination goals by hosting a series of educational meetings regarding early childhood that are open to the public Speakers include widely recognized local, national and international experts In addition TUCI provides physical space in our own facility for not for profit organizations with an interest in children’s issues to hold meetings free of charge TUCI has developed a multimedia presentation that runs continuously in our lobby about early brain development We request that all groups that use our facility make an effort to go through this exhibit in the hope that it will be another way to increase their sensitivity to the importance of early brain development TUCI staff have also served as facilitators for a variety of child related coalitions that have as a goal bringing community groups with similar interests together in order that they might share experiences and gain insight into what others are doing and potentially develop collaborative projects Recent examples include a coalition for Public Awareness for different groups interested in how to most effectively get their message related to children’s issues into the media A second example is a coalition run through TUCI and the County regarding violence that was an outgrowth of the data inspection and criminal activity impacting children in Memphis In these type of collaboratives, TUCI staff organize and lead the groups and TUCI provides the space, equipment, refreshments etc Other dissemination efforts include talks provided to various community groups by staff from TUCI and help by staff with the development of their own early brain awareness messages by other organizations such as the Neighborhood Christian Centers Such talks by TUCI and those it has helped with their own messages were presented to audiences in excess of 12,000 participants during 2009 Two to four times a month, staff from TUCI’s Center for Urban Policy posts a policy brief on our website and sends these briefs to over 2000 recipients in the region These are literature and data based descriptions of what’s going on in Memphis and how other communities have addressed similar issues Some of these have led to concrete actions such as a request from County government for TUCI staff to help with the development of the so called Child Impact Statement that will become a mandatory addition to all county legislative initiatives and will ultimately effect all the children in Memphis and Shelby County External support provided by TUCI to not for profits in the community have primarily gone to three groups In 2009 TUCI made contributions to LeBonheur Children’s Hospital of over $2 million This is part of an overall $25 million commitment that TUCI has made to LeBonheur and is being used in the construction of the new hospital Almost $1 million dollars in 2009 went to support a long term research project that is being performed by The University of Tennessee’s Department of Preventive Medicine called the Conditions affecting Neurocognitive development and learning in early childhood study or CANDLE This is a prospective study designed to determine what specific factors during the first three years of a child’s life can be identified that influence brain development The ultimate outcome from this study may have important national implications The goal is to enroll over 1500 pregnant women and to follow their children for the first three years of their lives To this point the study is on target to enroll and capture both biological data and data that informs over ten domains of psychosocial data collection Finally, TUCI has provided major support to a community service organization called Neighborhood Chrstian Centers (NCC) Historically this group has focused on the Maslovian needs of the clients they serve who are among the most disadvantaged in our community In this effort, NCC touches as many as 100,000 lives/yr In 2009 TUCI has helped in their effort by supplying expertise from our staff and funding for the support of additional NCC staff that were needed An example of our efforts with NCC include using our staff to help them develop demographic questionnaire which for the first time allows them to capture in a consistent manner useful information that can be used to influence some of the policies that they are looking to develop
