The Forum for the Future of Higher Education (the Forum) is an independent, nonprofit research center, comprised of a community of academic leaders and scholars from across the country who explore new thinking in higher education. The Forum facilitates shared inquiry and collaboration on issues likely to influence the future of higher education, primarily in economics and finance, institutional strategy, and new learning media and technology. The Forum also explores the role of higher education in the global political economy, advances in the cognitive and neurosciences, and the relationship between campus and community. The Forum sponsors and creates research, presents scholarship at annual Aspen symposia, and disseminates findings throughout higher education. The Forum sponsors research and creates knowledge intended to inform campus policy and decision-making. Its research agenda focuses on new thinking and ideas likely to affect the future of higher education. Each year, 15-20 new forum scholars are designated. The forum is currently engaged in the following major research initiatives: The Forum on Politics, the Economy and Higher Education; The Ford Policy Forum; The Forum on Human Cognition and New Learning Technologies; The Forum on Higher Education Finance; The Forum on Connecting Campus and Community; The Forum on Technology and Liberal Learning; McKinsey Project on Global Higher Education. Forum scholarship is published in several print and electronic media and broadly disseminated throughout higher education. Forum publications include Forum Futures, Summaries of Forum research, published annually, and designed for use in board and planning retreats; Aspen Symposium. Full-text of papers presented at annual Aspen Symposium; Ford Policy Forum. Studies on the economics of higher education and related policy issues from the Ford Policy Forum; Higher Education Finance Forum.
