CIVIC ENGAGEMENT - By facilitating discussions among municipal officials, programs to educate and inform area citizens, the EACF actively promotes the role of citizens as working partners of local government. This kind of interaction allows citizens and officials to listen and learn from each other and work together on an ongoing basis to address issues and concerns they feel are important. Among the many benefits of such collaborative activity are the generation of social capital that invigorates and enriches community life, and the development of strategies such as shared services, partnerships, and consolidation that improve services at lower costs.

these groups get to know each other, to develop mutual trust and respect, to share best practices, and to collaborate in taking action. Second, more broadly, EACF's discussions, symposia, and workshops led by metro-area professionals and academicians inform citizens about general topics affecting life and work across the region.
Current Initiatives: Bi-Annual FDU Symposia; Meetings of School Superintendents, City Managers, and Mayors; Regional Autism School; Regional Career Development (in Planning); Regional Student Arts Council (In Planning) and opportunities relating to public health. EACF supports initiatives that produce measurable results that will positively influence community health policy development. Citizens are encouraged to support and work with schools, local health departments, hospitals, and other social service and not-for-profit organizations that are dedicated to maintaining healthy communities. Through their participation, active citizens draw attention to public health problems and opportunities, encourage the development
