in San Francisco, CA.
Form 990, Part III, Line 1, Description of Organization Mission: support low-income families through our Joy Lok Family Resource center and the work of our Child Care Subsidy and Resource & Referral programs which provides subsidized childcare to over 588 low income families citywide based on the needs of the families. Our work also supports the growth and development of quality childcare through our Provider Training, Food Program, and San Francisco CARES program which provides over $2,900,000 million dollars in educational stipends to the early childhood education workforce.
Form 990, Part III, Line 4a, Program Service Accomplishments: Each year, Wu Yee's Child Development program delivers high-quality comprehensive child care to 248 children ages 0-5. We serve 200 at our five child development centers located throughout the city of San Francisco; 12 children through the home-based program option where program staff and parents would work together to promote pre-natal care and group socializations, and 36 children through the Family Child Care program option where program staff would work with families who are enrolled in licensed family child care homes to provide them with resources and related support.

Child Care Provider Services Department

Wu Yee's Child Care Provider Services Department provides training, technical assistance and stipends for child care providers in San Francisco in the various stages of their careers. Wu Yee's Provider Training program partners with established child care providers by training them on latest child development topics, so that they can maintain and achieve high quality practices in their field. The department also supports child care providers who are new to the child care field by assisting them through the application process of opening their own child care business and by providing them with child development trainings. The Department also conducts site visits to child care microenterprises ensuring that high-quality and nutritious meals are being served through the Child Care Provider Food Program.
