Fundraisers	Schedule G, Part I	Payments to Infocision Management Corporation include fees for professional fundraising services plus fundraising expenses - list development, data processing, printing and mailhouse fees. Invoices clearly distinguish fundraising fees from fundraising expenses. Additional costs, such as caging, bank charges, other data processing and postage associated with phone solicitations are paid directly to the vendor and therefore not included in schedule G, column (v) amounts. Payments to Direct Response Consulting Services are for professional fundraising services only. All other fundraising expenses associated with direct mail fundraising are paid directly to the vendor providing the service and therefore not included in schedule G, column (v) amounts.

Governance	Form 990, Part VI	Line 11A. The 990 form is prepared and reviewed in detail by the AICR accounting department. The 990 form is then reviewed by AICR executive management, KPMG and the law firm Steptoe & Johnson. KPMG and Steptoe & Johnson both conduct detailed reviews of the 990 form. Once the 990 form and accompanying schedules are in final draft form, the return and schedules are placed on a secure website that can be accessed by a special link. The AICR Board of Directors are asked to review all documents at the website and provide feedback prior to the filing. Line 12c. The Institute's Board of Directors has a conflict of interest policy in effect. A copy of the policy is provided to each director, officer and staff member of AICR who is presently serving in a capacity where a conflict of interest could arise. The policy is reviewed annually. If the Board determines that changes do not need to be made, the policy is reaffirmed. New directors, officers, and staff members are advised of the policy in effect upon taking office or upon the start of employment. In fiscal year 2010 and going forward, Directors, Officers, executives, and senior level management staff will be required to sign a "Declaration of Lack of Conflict of Interest." In the event of a conflict of interest relevant to a matter requiring action by the Board, the person shall call it to the attention of the board and such person shall not vote on the matter. The person having a conflict of interest shall provide the Board with any and all relevant information, and shall retire from the room in which the Board is meeting concerning such matter, and shall not participate in the final deliberation or decision regarding the matter under consideration. The minutes of the meeting of the Board shall reflect that the conflict of interest was disclosed and that the interested person was not present during the final discussion of such matter or vote and did not vote on such matter. When there is a doubt as to whether a conflict of interest exists, the matter shall be resolved by vote of the Board of Directors, excluding the interested person. Line 15b. The Compensation Committee, through a resolution of the AICR Board of Directors, is responsible for setting the compensation of the principal officers. This Committee conducts an annual review of performance at the end of each calendar year against the goals and objectives established in the yearly budgets, the yearly operation plan and the long-term strategic plans. Information utilized in determining compensation adjustments include: 1) Report from the Executive Team for the Calendar Year, 2) Fiscal Year Performance and Effectiveness Assessment Report, 3) Annual Management Compensation Report by PRM Consulting, 4) American Society of Association Executives Compensation Survey Report, 5) Business and Legal Reports Survey of Exempt Compensation 5) Other reports upon request by the Compensation Committee. After reviewing compensation studies and other industry information, compensation is determined and awarded. Increases are consistent with compensation paid by organizations similar to AICR having comparable responsibility and duties. Increases are documented and a memo is drafted from the Compensation Committee to the Senior Vice President of Finance, Human Resource file and to the executives receiving the review, including the instructions and details for the compensation changes. Line 19. All governing documents and financial statements are available to the public upon request.

Statement of Program Service Accomplishments	Form 990, Part III, line 4a	EDUCATION The American Institute for Cancer Research (AICR) focuses on helping people make choices that lower their risk for cancer, we are committed to changing lives to save lives. We fund innovative research on the roles of food, nutrition, physical activity and weight in cancer risk and survivorship. AICR also continuously interprets the global scientific literature and educates the public about the empowering message that emerges from the research. We can all take small, everyday steps that have been shown to help prevent, and survive, cancer. Research. The Work We Fund. In 1982, the American Institute for Cancer Research was founded to fill a critical research gap. For decades, studies had shown that cancer rates increased as people migrated from countries with plant-based diets to countries with diets higher in meat and dairy products. At the same time, experimental methods had improved enough to allow laboratory scientists to begin to investigate how dietary factors influence the cancer process on a molecular level. Two major reports (Richard Doll and Richard Peto's "The Causes of Cancer" in 1981 and the US National Academy of Sciences report "Diet, Nutrition and Cancer" in 1982) evaluated this mounting evidence. Citing the life-saving potential of this field of study, both reports concluded by issuing urgent calls for more and better research. AICR was established to answer those calls. We were the first organization to devote itself to studying the role of diet and other lifestyle factors in cancer risk. For nearly three decades, we have received support from individual Americans that has enabled us to fund millions of dollars worth of cutting-edge research at clinics, hospitals, cancer centers and universities across the country. In those early years, the notion that diet and activity could have any effect on cancer was still considered radical. But as the evidence has steadily mounted, what was once a "fringe" concept has transformed into universally accepted medical and scientific fact. Research is the basis of all programs at AICR. Interpretation. AICR's Global Reports and Continuous Updates. The First Expert Report. Ten years after AICR's founding, the need to comprehensively assess and evaluate the mounting global evidence on nutrition and cancer risk became clear. Thus began a massive five-year project that culminated in the publication of the 1997 report "Food, Nutrition and the Prevention of Cancer: a Global Perspective," a joint effort of AICR and its international affiliate, the World Cancer Research Fund (WCRF-UK). Over the following years, the conclusions of this report were adopted by researchers, health professionals and policy makers, and set a new agenda for cancer research and education in the U.S. and around the world. The Second Expert Report. In the years that followed, the field of diet-cancer research continued to expand, much of that growth spurred by AICR's 1997 report. As evidence continued to mount, it wasn't long before it again became necessary to assemble and interpret the findings appearing in journals around the globe. In 2007, AICR and its international affiliates published the second expert report, "Food, Nutrition, Physical Activity and the Prevention of Cancer: a Global Perspective." It laid out a transparent methodology for evaluating the scientific literature that will be adopted by researchers studying diet and cancer for years to come. To produce the second expert report, AICR and its affiliates commissioned 9 independent research teams to conduct 20 systematic literature reviews. A panel of 21 experts on nutrition and chronic disease then reviewed the collected data. Based on its review of these data (drawn from approximately 7,000 studies), the expert panel issued health and dietary recommendations for cancer prevention. AICR's Recommendations for Cancer Prevention. 1. Be as lean as possible without becoming underweight. 2. Be physically active for at least 30 minutes every day. 3. Avoid sugary drinks. Limit consumption of energy-dense foods (particularly processed foods high in sugar or low in fiber, or high in fat). 4. Eat more of a variety of vegetables, fruits, whole grains and legumes, such as beans. 5. Limit consumption of red meats, such as beef, pork and lamb, and avoid processed meats. 6. If consumed at all, limit alcoholic drinks to 2 for men and 1 for women a day. 7. Limit consumption of salty foods and foods processed with salt (sodium). 8. Don't use supplements to protect against cancer. Special Population Recommendations. 9. It's best for mothers to breastfeed exclusively for six months and then add other liquids and foods. 10. After treatment, cancer survivors should follow the recommendations for cancer prevention. And always remember- do not smoke or chew tobacco. The Policy Report. In February 2009 AICR and the WCRF global network launched "Policy and Action for Cancer Prevention," an evidence-based report that makes recommendations for different groups in society to effect the kind of systemic societal changes that will help prevent millions of cancers. Its recommendations form a roadmap for policymakers in the US and around the world to take decisive action to reduce cancer rates. The Continuous Update Project. To ensure that AICR's recommendations continue to reflect the current scientific evidence, the Continuous Update Project is dedicated to building on the solid foundation of our Second Expert Report through the continuous monitoring and analysis of new research in this vital area. New data are continually added to what is already the largest and most comprehensive database of scientific studies on the links between diet, physical activity, body fat and cancer, in 2009, we published the first update, which was focused on breast cancer. Education. AICR's Message. The public education programs at the American Institute for Cancer Research (AICR) are evidence-based. This evidence comes from both the research we fund and the conclusions drawn in our expert reports. We produce materials to meet a wide variety of needs, across all stages of the cancer continuum. AICR avails itself of several different distribution channels to reach many audiences with our materials and message. AICR Newletter. In FY10, our quarterly newsletter reached over 3 million households with its practical tips, recipes and features showing how to put AICR's recommendations into everyday practice. This 12-page, 2-color tabloid is full of information on cancer-protective foods, explains how to get and stay active and profiles the cutting-edge research made possible by AICR supporters. Each issue contains content for the general public as well as cancer survivors, and is carefully reviewed by an advisory group of clinicians, registered dietitians, recipe developers and cancer researchers. Periodic reader surveys help AICR's editorial staff tailor its content to best suit its audience. In a recent survey, 91 percent of respondents said the AICR Newsletter had helped motivate them to make healthier choices.

Statement of Program Service Accomplishments	Form 990, Part III, line 4a (continued)	Brochures. Developed to place the latest cancer research findings in a clear, easy-to-understand format, AICR brochures and leaflets reach several different audiences with our empowering message. In FY10, we offered eight different brochure series, including Healthy Living for Cancer Prevention (AICR's Recommendations and Guidelines). The New American Plate (A simple approach to meal-making for lower cancer risk). Homemade for Health (Menus for quick, delicious, cancer-protective meals). Facts on Preventing Cancer (Answers to common questions about cancer). Stopping Cancer (Information on controlling the risk factors for specific cancers). Survivor Series (Evidence-based advice for patients and survivors). Watch Your Waist (Tips on preventing obesity, a major cancer risk factor). Materiales en Español (Brochures for Spanish-speaking audiences). Each brochure is developed with professional guidance to provide the greatest possible value to its intended audiences. Individuals order single free copies or download them from the AICR website, health professionals make bulk purchases at significant discounts. AICR also distributes brochures at conferences, events and health fairs. In FY10 alone, AICR distributed over a quarter of a million brochures. Health Aids. AICR avails itself of various health aids - including recipe cards, charts, tearsheets, magnets and more - to turn lowering cancer risk into a "hands-on" experience. Individuals order single free copies, health professionals make bulk purchases at significant discounts. AICR also distributes health aids at conferences, events and health fairs. In FY10 alone, AICR distributed over 89,000 health aids. Science Now. Newsletter. To reach supporters and health professionals looking for a more thorough understanding of the cancer research in general and the science behind AICR's recommendations in particular, AICR offers the quarterly Science Now newsletter. Each issue of this 8-page, 2-color tabloid features research updates and in-depth examinations of the study of diet, physical activity and weight in cancer prevention, treatment and survivorship. In FY10, approximately 107,000 people received a copy of Science Now. AICR on the Web. AICR's website (www.aicr.org) offers continually updated information on AICR research, healthy, cancer-protective recipes and fitness tips, and a host of interactive tools and resources on the science of lowering cancer risk. The site contains information targeted to specific audiences including AICR supporters, the general public, cancer patients/survivors/caregivers, cancer researchers, health professionals, the media and financial planners. In FY10, AICR's website received an average of 31,500 unique visitors per month, and over half a million visitors in total. Total page views for FY10 topped 2.1 million. Free E-publications. AICR has developed a library of e-publications that deliver the latest information on lowering cancer risk straight to subscriber's inboxes. Each AICR e-publication adapts AICR's evidence-based messages into a clear, web-friendly format. Our e-publications are reviewed by cancer researchers, clinicians, dietitians, and AICR staff. eNews is a monthly e-newsletter filled with tips, recipes and expert advice on lowering cancer risk. eNews emphasizes the "take-home" message. How can I start living for lower cancer risk today? As of September 2010, over 325,000 people subscribed to eNews. Health-e-Recipe is for those looking for ways to bring the research home with quick, easy and delicious cancer-protective meals. All recipes come from AICR's Test Kitchen and follow AICR's guidelines. As of September 2010, Health-e-Recipe had over 39,000 subscribers. Those looking to dig a little deeper into the research can do so by subscribing to Cancer Research Update. This biweekly digest of breaking news and current research in the fight against cancer is written for laymen with a strong interest in the science of cancer risk, as well as health professionals looking to stay current. AICR Multimedia. The AICR blog (www.aicrblog.org), speaks to supporters, cancer patients, survivors and caregivers, health professionals, the media and the general public. Filled with tips, researcher profiles, recipes from the AICR Test Kitchen, interactive tools for lowering cancer risk, the AICR blog is also a means by which AICR engages in an ongoing discussion about the research, separating cancer myths from cancer facts. The blog received over 30,000 visitors in FY10. On Facebook and Twitter (@aicrtweets), AICR posts frequent updates on research, recipes, media statements, features, campaigns and programs. The Taste Buddies (www.tastebuddies.org) is AICR's website for kids, created to help parents of children aged 7-12 instill healthy habits that will help prevent cancer throughout life. The site features kid-friendly games, recipes and activities that promote good nutrition and physical activity. CancerResource. Program. AICR offers a free kit of advice for newly diagnosed cancer patients and their caregivers. Developed with a team of physicians, nurses, dietitians, psychologists and cancer patients, CancerResource lays out information patients need with clarity and precision, including Questions to Ask Your Doctor, Treatment Options, Where to Find Help, Nutrition During Treatment, and much more. Four prepared CancerResource packets are available, for cancers of the breast, lung, prostate and colon, but AICR staff can also create customized packets for any cancer. Requests for each packet are filled immediately, to get this vital information to those who need it as quickly as possible. Food for the Fight DVD. To provide cancer patients, survivors and caregivers with comprehensive yet easy-to-use information, AICR partnered with New York-Presbyterian Hospital to produce this 2-part, 57-minute DVD. It contains evidence-based expert advice from Dr. Mehmet Oz and researcher Walter Willett, among others, on nutrition and physical activity during and after treatment. The disc also contains food demos and inspiring survivor stories. Many hospitals and cancer centers now play AICR's Food for the Fight DVD in their treatment rooms, while others give it to patients so they can watch it at home at their leisure, and share its vital information with their loved ones. AICR Health Professionals Program. To help get AICR's message into the hands of those who need it, we offer health professionals our materials at a significant discount. With the AICR Health Education catalog, a quarterly, 24-page brochure which reached over 156,000 dietitians, nurses, doctors, health educators, and community groups in FY10, HPs can avail themselves of special discounts on bulk purchases. The AICR Health Education Catalog also allows HPs to stay current with the new toolkits, tearsheets, brochures and health aids AICR offers. AICR Health Professional and Educator eCommunity. To provide an online destination for health professionals, AICR launched our HPE e-community early in FY10. There, HPs will find a wealth of interactive tools, web chats, AICR In-Depth background papers, one-sheet Q-and-As, practical evidence-based advice for patients and clients and special discounts on bulk purchases. Toll-Free Phone Services. Via AICR's toll-free number, 1-800-843-8114, members of the public can order brochures and health aids, request a free CancerResource toolkit for cancer patients, get advice from a registered dietitian (via AICR's "Nutrition Hotline") and much more. In FY10, approximately 150,000 individuals contacted AICR via the toll-free number.

Statement of Program Service Accomplishments	Form 990, Part III, line 4a (continued)	Professional Publications. AICR reaches out to the medical, scientific and health policy communities with our expert reports, policy report and other media. In FY10, nearly 11,000 individuals at non-profit and private and public health organizations, government agencies and Boards of Health, hospitals and research centers ordered our professional publications. The New American Plate Cookbook. To place AICR's message about lowering cancer risk in a comprehensive and handsomely produced format, AICR's New American Plate Cookbook (published by the University of California Press) is available in bookstores. The New American Plate Cookbook is a 312-page hardcover containing 200 recipes, 80 color-photos, tips on meal-planning, cooking techniques, an extensive glossary and a "Science Behind the New American Plate" appendix which reviews the decades of research that has shaped AICR's approach. Over 50,000 copies have been sold, and all royalties support AICR cancer research. Seminars, Exhibits and Conferences. In FY10, AICR Education staff attended, exhibited, networked and distributed materials at 8 conferences and annual meetings, including American Association of Retired Persons American Dietetic Association Obesity Society Society for Public Health Educators American College of Sports Medicine Food for Your Whole Life Symposium American Academy of Nurse Practitioners International Conference on Physical Activity and Public Health Media Programs Press Releases. In FY10, AICR distributed 72 press releases, statements, features and advisories distributed to its media contacts on a host of topics ranging from newly published research to practical, hands-on tips for moving more, staying lean and eating smart. As a result, US media outlets carried AICR news items over 6,000 times during FY10. Over 89.1 million Americans read about AICR's message in their new papers, another 122.9 million read about AICR in magazines, and web outlets that carried AICR messages reached a combined audience of 1.6 billion. The total number of impressions AICR's message made on the American population through the media in FY10 was 1.8 billion. AICR Health Features Program. Every month, AICR provides ready-to-use content to small (<20,000 circulation) media outlets as new paper columns featuring AICR's cancer-prevention message. Columns include AICR HealthTalk (a question-and-answer column) and two e-recipe columns (From the AICR Test Kitchen). In FY10, this program boasted over 734 media outlets as subscribers. Media Conference. November 5, 2009. The Obesity-Cancer Connection. To coincide with AICR Annual Research Conference, AICR held a press conference in Washington, DC to release new estimates of US cancers related to obesity, survey numbers showing low awareness of obesity-cancer link and the launch of both the AICR Blog and AICR's kids' website, The TasteBuddies. Subsequently, the AICR announcements were covered in over 340 radio/television broadcasts in the top 20 US media markets, and on national newscasts, including CNN, MSNBC, FOX News, NBC, ABC and CBS. The event generated over 200 items in newspapers and magazines, including the Wall Street Journal, the Washington Post, Washington Post, USA Today and US News and World Report. Ever Green, Ever Healthy Program. This program reaches out to the business community - specifically to corporate wellness programs, HR departments and employee newsletters - with quarterly emails of repurposed AICR feature articles and columns. During FY10, work began to retrofit this program as an e-newsletter in FY11.

Statement of Program Service Accomplishments	Form 990, Part III, line 4b (continued)	RESEARCH PROGRAMS Scientific study of the relationship of diet, physical activity, and weight management to cancer risk and survivorship continues to be one of the most promising areas of cancer research. A growing body of evidence shows that food, nutrition, and physical activity play important roles in the cancer process and in cancer survivorship. Research now indicates that about one-third of some of the most common cancers could be prevented by appropriate food, nutrition, weight management, and physical activity. The American Institute for Cancer Research (AICR) pioneered the funding of research on diet and cancer. In total through FY10 the Institute has committed over $95 million for more than 700 individual research projects at universities, hospitals and research centers worldwide. AICR is one of the largest non-government funding sources for peer-reviewed research projects on diet, nutrition and cancer. AICR Annual Research Conference. Starting in 1990, AICR has hosted an annual research conference to facilitate the exchange of ideas and information and to encourage constructive debate on timely diet and cancer research topics. The conference provides a forum for researchers, scientists, medical and health professionals, and others to present and discuss their work. Past conferences have covered such topics as diet and breast cancer, physical activity, calories, fat and cancer, vitamins and minerals in cancer prevention and treatment, the role of phytochemicals in cancer prevention, nutrition and cancer survivorship, and diet and cancer intervention trials. AICR also participates in a variety of meetings, seminars, symposiums and conferences throughout the course of the year. Marilyn Gentry Fellowshipships at UNC. AICR has created the Marilyn Gentry Fellowshipship Program in Nutrition and Cancer at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill to develop tomorrow's leaders in nutrition research in relation to cancer. Fellows receive two years of organized mentoring while conducting their research projects. They develop a body of data that will help them compete successfully for grant funding in the future. This program has produced several graduates who have entered the nutrition-cancer field. AICR has also funded a Distinguished Professorship at UNC to chair this program. In addition, the AICR-WCRF Institute for the Advanced Study of Diet, Nutrition and Cancer is housed within the Michael Hooker Research Center on the UNC campus. These facilities include three laboratories dedicated to researching the role of diet and nutrition in the causation, prevention, and treatment of cancer. Research Grant Program. Through its research grant program, the Institute has encouraged innovative research in cancer prevention, treatment, and survivorship. AICR's research grants have brought millions of dollars to this important field, and have helped attract and train new research talent. AICR has several research grant programs to support the innovative study of cancer. Research grants are peer-reviewed and awarded on an open, competitive basis. Investigator Initiated Grants. The largest of the Institute's grant programs is the Investigator Initiated Grant Program, which provides up to $75,000 per year (plus 10% for administrative overhead) for a maximum of two years, for research projects in the areas of cancer prevention, treatment, and survivorship. This program has been instrumental in advancing research into diet, physical activity and weight management as they relate to cancer, and has led to hundreds of articles in peer-reviewed scientific publications. Postdoctoral Awards. The Institute's Postdoctoral Awards Program encourages and supports new researchers to enter the nutrition and cancer field. This program provides grants of up to $38,000 per year for a maximum of two years, to be used for preliminary research into ideas that can then lead to larger project funding from AICR or other sources. The Postdoctoral Award Program is rigorously designed to insure that exacting standards are followed in proposed projects. Matching Grants. The Institute's Matching Grants Program is designed to fund high-quality, peer-reviewed research on diet and nutrition that meets the objectives of AICR and potential matching funders. Matching funds may come from corporations or individuals. Research grant applications within this program receive the same scrupulous peer-review as any other research grant proposal. AICR Grant Review. Panels. All research grant applications undergo a peer review process modeled after the grant review process developed by the National Institutes of Health. AICR's grant review process is one of only a few in the nation that meet the standards of the National Cancer Institute. All research grant applications are assigned for review to one of two AICR Grant Review Panels. Panel I focuses on grant proposals in the area of diet, nutrition, physical activity, weight management and cancer prevention. Panel II focuses on proposals in the area of diet, nutrition, physical activity, weight management and cancer treatment and survivorship. The Panels review applications for their scientific merit, the qualifications, experience and productivity of the investigators, the facilities available, and the promise for elucidating the roles of food, nutrition, physical activity and weight management in cancer prevention, treatment, and survivorship. The review process is strictly controlled, including procedures to avoid potential conflicts of interest. The AICR Grant Review panels meet once annually to review research grant applications. Members of the panels are selected for their research expertise and their ability to bring a wide scope of scientific experience to the review process. In addition to the regular members of the panels, additional researchers may be added for particular review sessions if a special area of expertise is required. Recommendations of the Grant Review Panels are forwarded to the AICR Board of Directors, which makes the final decisions on grant awards. The Grant Review Panelists during FY2010 were: Grant Review Panel I: Judith K. Christman, PhD - Chair, University of Nebraska Medical Center; Rajesh Agarwal, MD, PhD, University of Colorado at Denver; Leonard H. Augenlicht, PhD, Albert Einstein Cancer Center; Elisa Bandera, MD, PhD, The Cancer Institute of New Jersey; Ranjana Bird, PhD, University of Windsor; Joshua Bomser, PhD, Ohio State University; Robert Chapkin, PhD, Texas A&M University; Kim Creek, PhD, University of South Carolina; Zigang Dong, MD, PhD, University of Minnesota; Alison Duncan, PhD, University of Guelph; Richard Eckert, PhD, University of Maryland; Edward Giovannucci, MD, ScD, Harvard University; Johanna Lampe, PhD, Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center; Barbara C.
