Major Accomplishments

The LID Center was instrumental in developing EPA's Green Infrastructure Strategy. The Center worked with EPA, Stakeholders, and Municipalities in order to determine the key elements that are the foundation of this approach. The Center has been working with EPA on the development of guidance for Section 438 of the Energy Security Act. This legislation is critical to the rebuilding and construction of federal facilities because of its emphasis on the management of storm water and water. The Center is developing guidance documents and case studies that will be used to benchmark the implementation of the programs. During 2008 The Center continued to provide leadership for Green Highways. This includes receiving a grant from EPA to develop a nationwide training program.

The Center opened a branch office in San Luis Obispo, CA. This office is funded as part of a Supplemental Environmental Implementation Project in order to support activities of the Central Coast Region of the State Water Resources Control Board. The office is working with the Board and the Region on developing LID implementation strategies and training programs.

Organizational Accomplishments

Report for SF 990

Fiscal period: October 1, 2009 to September 30, 2010

The Low Impact Development Center, Inc.

Introduction

The following is a brief summary of the organizational accomplishments of the Low Impact Development Center, Inc. for fiscal year 2010 that has been prepared for the annual federal tax reporting requirements. The mission of the Center is to develop innovative and sustainable stormwater management solutions for natural resource protection and community development. The focus of the Center has been to develop pilot projects, conduct basic research, develop strategies and techniques, report on findings, develop manuals of practice, and conduct training to help institutions and governments adopt these approaches. The Center conducts projects nationwide and partners with numerous research organizations, private entities, and other non-profit organizations.

Program Direction and Major Grants and Projects

The Center is organized to lead, manage, and coordinate teams of experts from a wide-range of disciplines to address critical watershed and community development issues. This partnership approach has allowed our small but highly qualified staff to develop and implement critical grants and projects in the field of environmental protection. The Center has been highly selective about our projects, clients, and partners. This allows us to maintain a high level of quality of projects and grants that are challenging and rewarding to our clients and staff. A considerable amount of our work has centered on developing programs of guidance for institutions and federal agencies. This approach has encouraged other entities to learn from these entities and develop their own programs. A significant amount of our work has focused on Department of Defense facilities and Transportation Agencies.

Rather than pursuing the “universe” of projects and clients, the Center has strategically aligned itself with a few major clients and organizations that are interested in development of cutting edge and innovative programs. When it is considered that we started developing LID in 1998 and you look at the current acceptance of LID as a mainstream water resource discipline, we can be proud of the impact, influence, and accomplishments of our organization.

The Center is still committed to projects in the Bay region and the Anacostia. We have continued our work with DOTs through the Green Highways Partnership to create sustainable transportation approaches. The Center also continues to conduct training on Green Highways through an Assistance Agreement awarded by U.S. EPA Region 3. Recently, the Center has joined a team that provides technical support to the U.S. EPA Office of Watershed Management. Additionally, we have a recent subcontract with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to design pilot projects for various facilities.

The following is a list of major current projects and programs that the LID Center is focused on:

- Green Highways Partnership. The Center has an Assistance Agreement to US EPA Region 3 to develop a nationwide approach for innovative water quality strategies and techniques for transportation projects.
- Innovation and Research for Water Infrastructure for the 21st Century. Through a Subaward Grant Agreement with the Water Environment Research Foundation (WERF), the Center is working to develop and integrate LID and green infrastructure technologies into community water resource management and regulatory programs.
- District of Columbia Curb Alternative Project Through a grant agreement with the District of Columbia Department of Environment, the Center is developing an LID intensive street redesign for the identified street segment. This includes outreach efforts and a final report that can be used throughout the city.
- Green Streets Notebook. The Center is developing a green infrastructure and LID resource notebook for use at state and local level departments of transportation through a subcontract to USEPA.
- U.S. Army Corps of Engineers LID Demonstration Projects. The Center is working as a subcontractor to provide the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Baltimore District with LID nonstructural and structural pilot projects to address stormwater management at various locations.
- District of Columbia Department of Transportation Green Infrastructure Assessment. The Center is conducting a green infrastructure assessment of the New York Avenue corridor and is developing conceptual design drawings to showcase potential LID techniques as a model for transportation planning.
- Town of Bladensburg, Maryland Green Street Charette. The Center supported and developed technical handouts and other related materials for the Green Street Charrette held in October. The project demonstrates capacity building for underserved communities.
- Chesapeake Bay Trust Grants. The Center was recently awarded grants through the Chesapeake Bay Trust that will involve green streets projects in College Park, University Park, and Capitol Heights, Maryland.
- U.S. EPA Office of Watershed Management Support. The Center is part of a team that provides EPA Office of Watershed Management with technical support on innovative stormwater management programs.
