As necessary, PTV refers clients to our pro-bono psychiatrists for evaluation and follow-up, with continued consultation & collaboration with the psychiatrist in the care of the client. We have asylum readiness groups, which help PTV's clients understand and prepare for the asylum process. We have attorneys speak to the group to explain what will happen, what they can expect to go through, and answer any questions they may have. PTV has The Healing Club, which is an informal multi-cultural gathering of PTV clients, their families and PTV staff for cultural and recreational activities. It provides the opportunity to share their culture through food, music, stories and build a sense of community and social support and to share their personal challenges and achievements. This in turn helps them in establishing guidelines for the work of torture treatment, and is helpful to the consortium of other non-profit organizations that provide similar services to survivors of torture, as PTV does.

Part IV Supplemental Information. Complete this part to provide the information required in Part I, line 2, and any other additional information.

PTV does an initial assessment and evaluation of any potential patients, to see if they meet PTV's criteria for providing assistance and relief to victims of state-sponsor torture. Once accepted as a PTV patient, they are eligible for any of the assistance PTV provides for any of our patients. Files are kept for each patient, documenting all treatment, meetings, medical records, hearings, interaction with attorneys, the courts, government agencies and any providers of social services. Before any financial assistance is provided for a patient, it is discussed with the clinical team, and if approved, then with PTV management. Most grants are paid to third parties for assistance to the patient such as for transportation, rent, grocery cards, prescriptions, medical supplies and similar basic and emergency needs. If cash is paid directly to a PTV patient, we ask for a receipt for the expenditure.
