The additional income listed in 990 ez part I line 8 is from royalties for previous year's scientific publications related to the program and received from Oxford University Press and the ACS.

Regarding the grants and similar listed in 990 ez part I line 10 Explanation of how the organization determines which individuals receive grants:

The ACS Division of Computers in Chemistry (COMP) currently administers the Chemical Computing Group (CCG) Excellence Award, which is given to up to ten graduate students per year in the field of Computational Chemistry on the basis of three criteria: 1) The students must be presenting a poster or oral presentation within the COMP program at an ACS National meeting, 2) the merit of the work to be presented must be very high as judged by a committee selected by the ACS COMP Division Executive Committee, and 3) a letter of recommendation by their thesis advisor must be strong. Applicants are prioritized according to the selection criteria, and up to ten awards may be made each year. The Division also gives one award for Emerging Technologies in Computational Chemistry (Symposium Competition Award), and eight Junior Faculty Excellence Awards. The Emerging Technologies competition award is given on the basis of excellence of research and the presentation of that research during the symposium, which is held at the Fall ACS National Meeting each year. The eight Junior Faculty Awardees (four per meeting) are awarded on the basis of their being tenure-track, junior faculty with excellent emerging research programs as determined by a panel of judges selected by the Executive Committee of the ACS Division of Computers in Chemistry. The ACS Computers in Chemistry Division does not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, sex, physical disability or sexual orientation.

The other expenses list in 990 ez part I line 16 include program related expenses for the two annual National American Chemical Society meetings and the annual Computers in Chemistry Division planning retreat: 1) a Computers in Chemistry poster session is held at both national meetings 2) a computer projector was purchased to facilitate planning and used during the planning retreat 3) leadership training with the American Chemical Society 4) the travel, lodging and meal expense reimbursements for the Computers in Chemistry Division members serving the voting role of Councilor at the American Chemical Society meetings and 5) office supplies and operations. Additionally, during the 2010 year the American Chemical Society Investment Pool was closed out and deposited in the operating account. Subsequently, 75,000.00 was then invested with Vanguard which is listed as an investment expense.

990 ez line 20 other changes in net assets or fund values includes the $32,383 cost basis of the ACS Investment Pool, that cost had been incurred in a year prior to 2010 and so does not show during this accounting period. The closeout amount of the ACS Investment Pool in August differed from the market value listed from the beginning of the year amount. There was a $700 unrealized gain in the Vanguard account investment.

The other expenses list in 990 ez part III line 31a include the expenses for the two annual National American Chemical Society meetings and the annual Computers in Chemistry Division planning retreat.

Part III

Social events at the Spring and Fall National ACS meetings provided venues for scientific exchange and networking. Independent planning events at each meeting and a Divisional strategic retreat were also held during the year.
