29. TRAINING

In 2010 Jet City Rollergirls on average provided between 6-12 hours per week of on-skates training for the sport of roller derby. The training included organized practices and scrimmages for the 6 league teams, as well as a Fresh Meat Program for women interested in joining the sport. We are currently offering 58-64 hours of on-skates training per month.

The Fresh Meat Program focuses on the skills required for playing the sport of roller derby at a national and international level including endurance, speed, power, agility, balance, strength, and flexibility. Skaters are trained on how to hit, fall, maneuver, and work with one another as a team and within the rules of the sport.

During our Fresh Meat Program skaters are trained over the course of 8-10 weeks on the basics of roller skating. They have the opportunity to participate in up to 12 hours per week of skating under the guidance of our league coaches. At the end of the program, they are transferred to our fresh meat pool, known as the Jet Cadets, to try out for our league teams but are not guaranteed placement. The draft for team placement is held quarterly.

It is our goal to be able to compete and be competitive in the WFTDA regional and national U.S. tournaments every year. In order to reach that goal we need to increase our on skates training hours as well as increase the number of competitions we play against leagues both within and outside our region.

In 2011 we also plan on running 2-3 more 8-10 week Fresh Meat Programs in order to keep our teams full of qualified, competitive roller derby skaters.

30. EDUCATION & TRAINING

On average 1-2 hours/week of education and instruction was provided to Fresh Meat program participants, league members, and the general public through verbal teaching, written documents, website content, "open houses", and visual demonstration on the rules, training, and sport of roller derby. This includes but is not limited to basic skating skills, falls, balance/agility, skating with others, blocking, rules, etiquette, strategy, gear, and general female athlete wellness.

Our organization also sent 2 members and a volunteer to attend the WFTDA (Women's Flat Track Derby Association) 3 day national conference over Memorial Day weekend in 2010. This conference offers education on all aspects of the sport of roller derby, and we were able to share this information with our members and volunteers.

It is our goal to continue to offer 1-2 hours/week on average of education and instruction in 2011. We will be advancing our New Skater Program from a boot camp to a continuous training program. We will also have the opportunity for more thorough audience education via a projector at our bouts to demonstrate the rules and game play. We plan on attending the 2011 WFTDA annual conference in the same capacity as 2010.
