Summary of Significant Accounting Policies – continued

- Income Tax Accounting

PTP recognizes the amount of taxes payable or refundable annually. Income taxes are accounted for using the asset and liability method. Under this method, deferred tax assets and liabilities are recognized for the future tax consequences attributable to temporary differences between the financial statement carrying amounts of existing assets and liabilities and their respective tax-basis carrying amounts. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured using enacted tax rates expected to apply to taxable income in the years in which temporary differences are expected to be recovered or settled. The effect on deferred tax assets and liabilities of a change in tax rates is recognized in income in the period in which the enactment date occurs. A valuation allowance is provided for deferred tax assets if it is more likely than not that temporary differences will not be realized.

Effective January 1, 2009, PTP adopted FASB ASC 740-10, Accounting for Uncertainty in Income Taxes. That standard prescribes a minimum recognition threshold and measurement methodology that a tax position taken or expected to be taken in a tax return is required to meet before being recognized in financial statements. It also provides guidance for de-recognition, classification, interest, and penalties, accounting in interim periods, disclosure, and transition. The cumulative effect of this change in accounting principle had no effect on PTP's financial statements. The FASB has determined that a non-profit organization asserting that it is tax exempt is an uncertain tax position challengeable by the IRS.

In assessing the realization of deferred tax assets, management considers whether it is more likely than not that some portion of or all of the deferred tax assets will not be realized. The ultimate realization of deferred tax assets is dependent upon the generation of future taxable income during the periods in which temporary differences become deductible. Management considers the scheduled reversal of deferred tax liabilities, projected future taxable income, and tax planning strategies in making this assessment. Based upon the level of historical taxable income and projections for future taxable income over the period in which deferred tax assets are deductible, management believes it is more likely than not that PTP would realize the benefits of deductible temporary differences, net of existing valuation allowances.

PTP recognizes interest and penalties related to unrecognized tax benefits within the provision for income taxes on continuing operations in the accompanying statement of activities. PTP did not experience a significant increase or decrease in the total amounts of unrecognized tax benefits during the fiscal year ended December 31, 2010. Income tax returns filed by PTP are subject to examination by tax authorities until May 15, 2014. Management believes that PTP has appropriate support for all positions taken on its tax returns and that the annual tax provision includes amounts sufficient to pay any assessments of tax, interest, and penalties. Nonetheless, any amounts ultimately paid upon resolution of issues raised by taxing authorities may differ materially from the amounts accrued for each year. PTP files Form 990, Return of Organization Exempt From Income Tax with the Federal government.
