Form 990, Part III, Line 4d, Other Program Services: Other programs offered by Economics Arkansas include Economics/Personal Finance Challenge, CEE Dues, and the Economics Calendar Program. The Economics/Personal Finance Challenge program offers an opportunity for teams of High School students to compete in a contest of economics or personal finance knowledge and understanding. Participation in this competition has continually increased since its inaugural year and is expected to continue this trend due to the now required economics course for high school students in Arkansas. The CEE dues provide benefits such as discounts on economic education materials, information on national awards for exemplary economic education programs, priority access to regional and national economic education conferences and opportunities to participate in national program inititatives. The Economics Calendar Program encourages students in Kindergarten through 8th grade to take out their crayons and colored pencils to submit drawings of economic concepts they've learned in the classroom. including grants of $ 0.
