Pacing Behind, Going for Distance

Since the market bottomed in March 2009, U S stocks have regained much of the ground lost. Some sectors of the economy have done quite well, while others have lagged. Companies with the highest risk have seen the highest rewards. As a result, many high-quality companies have been largely ignored, and currently many of their stocks are attractively priced.

The S&P 500 Index and several of the sectors within it have posted a healthy total return during the past 24 months. Financials, consumer discretionary, industrials and materials have led the recovery. This makes sense because these outperforming sectors are most closely tied to the economy.

In addition to these cyclical companies, companies with high credit risk during the financial crisis have also been strong performers since the market bottom. These areas of outperformance follow the typical pattern we see in the early stages of an economic recovery, when fiscal policy focuses on stimulating growth and easing the supply of credit. Looking forward, we believe policy shifts may stir a change in investor mind-set.

Pacers: Consistency and Quality Should Be Rewarded

When considering how to invest today, we believe you should look forward, not in the rearview mirror chasing what has already outperformed. As the U S economy continues to gain steam, it solidifies the notion that the recovery is real. A healthier economy also calls for a shift in economic policy that tends to favor companies with high and consistent return potential.

Utility, health care, communications and consumer staples stocks have been left behind during the past two years. We think it makes sense to start looking here for high-quality companies at attractive valuations. Regardless of sector, we recommend taking a closer look at the quality companies with stock performance that have been trailing behind. We believe these even-paced stocks deserve more attention.

Riskier investments tend to do well when the economy starts to recover, but they can't maintain that pace forever. We believe it's a better strategy to consider higher-quality companies that have attractive valuation. Now is a good time to meet with your financial advisor to help ensure you don't have too much risk in your portfolio and to work to regain the right balance for you.

If you have long-term goals, you need a long-term strategy – and that means don't chase yesterday's winners but instead equip your portfolio with a strategy designed to go the distance. (Past performance is not a guarantee of future results. An investment in stocks will fluctuate with changes in market conditions and may be worth more or less than the original investment when sold.)

Maintaining Proper Balance

Everyone enjoys watching his or her investments grow, but the strong growth of investments in certain sectors over the past two years may have left your portfolio out of balance. If you haven't reviewed your investments with your Edward Jones financial advisor in the past 12 months, now is the time to do so. He or she can help ensure your portfolio contains the proper balance of investments and review your long-term needs and goals to help ensure you are still on track to reach them. Call today to schedule your portfolio review.
