The mission of the "Science on Sunday" project at Calvin Theological Seminary and as funded by a $200,000 grant from the John Templeton Foundation is to develop resources that will help pastors, worship leaders, youth group leaders, and Sunday school teachers to find creative and positive ways to weave an awareness of what science teaches us about the universe into the ministry life of the church. The project aims to celebrate science's contribution to our understanding of God's good work of creation.
(Code	) (Expenses $	5,575 including grants of $	) (Revenue $ 10,000)
The mission of the Spoelstra Communications Initiative at Calvin Theological Seminary is to encourage students to become effective speakers by honing skills in the area of oratory. This Initiative will fund guest lecturers in homiletics courses as well as specialized skills courses, a Rhetoric Center with on-site tutors, and a seminary-based Toastmasters Club that will target speaking skills and encourage students to develop in this area.
(Code	) (Expenses $	10,321 including grants of $	0) (Revenue $ 16,310)
The Bavinck Fellowship exists to further communication among scholars, teachers, pastors, and students interested in the theology of Herman Bavinck and the Bavinck tradition, and to provide resources for as well as encourage scholarship in it. The Fellowship comprises Bavinck Fellowship website as an international central gathering place for news about Bavinck and resources for scholarship, conferences, publications and discussions, the Bavinck Review and the Bavinck Society.

Identifier	Return Reference	Explanation
SchF_P01_S00_L02	Schedule F, Part I, Line 2	For all of our scholarship recipients, the funds are deposited with the degree granting institution for the benefit of the tuition charges incurred by the student. We follow the graduate program progress through reports from the students including major papers or other samplings of their academic work. Ordinarily, the extent of support does not exceed two years. For our grant recipients, funds are primarily disbursed through Seminary graduates acting in their missionary capacity. In some program instances, we also receive reports on the training program, and the site is visited by the program director or designee to review program results and at times to participate in the training events. In the case of cross-cultural internships which are a component of the Ministry Formation MDiv program and our Master's programs, need is determined by application process, supervisors are interviewed, provided with training and advice, then subsequent to the internship, reports are provided from supervisors on the performance of the student intern, and students also report on the experience and the use of the fund upon return. The Facing Your Future program sends chaperons to accompany participants, who observe the use of funds, then the organizations provide summary of expenses which are reviewed by the program director. The Bavinck Institute sent funding to sponsor a sister-Seminary's reformed theological chair in Europe.
