Drug Court: Under the supervision of the judiciary, and in cooperation with local law enforcement, MHSSO provides the treatment element to assist non-violent offenders as they pursue recovery and become productive citizens in the local community. Drug Court treatment involves completion of a court-ordered drug-rehabilitation program to help abusing offenders break the cycle of addiction and the crime that accompanies it. "Drug Court is committed to rehabilitating the offender and keeping families together by encouraging excellence in the community through rehabilitative services"

Systems of Care: This voluntary program is a "wrap around" plan for children who are seriously emotionally disturbed (SED) or at risk of SED and their family, that coordinates services among providers, families, educators, and others who care for the child or are involved in their life. The team develops individualized service plans built on a strengths & recovery based analysis. Services include assessments, diagnosis and planning that may recommend outpatient treatment, emergency services case management, intensive home-based services, day treatment, respite care, and therapeutic foster-care, whatever is needed for the successful recovery of the child and family.
