Form 990, Part III, Line 4a - Program Service Accomplishments

Located in the Mpumalanga Province of South Africa, the Enkosini Conservation Trust is a unique conservation initiative that will re-introduce indigenous wildlife onto land they once naturally roamed, ultimately re-establishing all of the original flora and fauna to the area. Enkosini will also continue to acquire habitat for the long-term survival of wildlife and the preservation of their eco-systems. This year through the help of donations and more than 100 international volunteers, Enkosini successfully released leopard, giraffe, zebra, black wildebeest, waterbuck, ostrich and impala. Motion sensor camera traps were purchased and installed, which enables a unique kind of data to be collected without human influence, without disturbing the animals or their habitat. The data can be analyzed later by the Enkosini team. The new Enkosini reserve manager, who is an experienced professional in fire control, has initiated a concerted fire control regime, including patchwork block burning and fire breaks. Recent additions to the ranger team have enabled the reserve to increase its fire management and anti-poaching efforts, while providing local employment opportunities. New ranger outposts on the reserve now provide for easier access to and patrolling of the entire reserve territory.

The Siyafunda Conservation Initiative is located on the 70,000 acre Greater Makalali Private Game Reserve in the Limpopo Province of South Africa. The project's head researcher has developed one of the first successful elephant contraception programs in South Africa. Since contraception is the only real alternative to elephant culling, the program is crucial to the future of elephants as wild lands become more and more limited. Makalali has implemented an immunocontraception program for their elephant population with 23 cows vaccinated to date. In the past year 200 international volunteers have provided necessary assistance to the program by studying aspects of elephant ecology and behavior and collecting extensive data, including observations and reactions to the darting and behavior thereafter. To date there has been a zero birth rate for the vaccinated cows, indicating a very promising method for controlling the elephant population in South Africa. To further enhance their research capabilities, the Siyafunda Conservation Initiative acquired GIS software and training protocols this year. This software is vital for comprehensive research data analysis and will be an invaluable tool.
