Briefly describe the organization's mission

Building on Henry E. Huntington's legacy of renowned collections and botanical gardens that enrich the visitor, The Huntington today encourages research and promotes education in the arts, humanities, and botanical sciences through the growth and preservation of its collections, through the development and support of a community of scholars, and through the display and interpretation of its extraordinary resources to the public. The Collections The Huntington has assembled primary materials, art objects, and living collections which reflect the development of Western culture, from the ninth century to the present. These collections embody the diverse and interwoven contributions of many cultures, peoples, and nations. The Huntington's holdings of rare books, manuscripts, art objects, and botanical specimens speak to our contemporary audiences because they reveal the complexity of the human experience. Stewardship With its outstanding collections in the arts, humanities, and botanical s.

The Huntington Art Collections focus on European art from the 15th to the early 20th century and American art from the late 17th to the mid-20th century. The holdings continue to grow by gift and purchase, especially in the areas of American and 19th-century British art. The European art collections include about 420 paintings, approximately 370 works of sculpture, more than 2,500 decorative art objects, and 20,000 prints and drawings. The American art holdings now number about 240 paintings, 50 works of sculpture, 990 decorative art objects, 8,000 prints and drawings, and 1,800 photographs. Access to the public of about 500,000 visitors is provided through permanent installations and special exhibitions, publications and research. The European collections are displayed in the Huntington Art Gallery, the original Huntington residence, American art is on view in the Virginia Steele Scott Galleries of American Art/erburu gallery, and special exhibitions are presented in the MaryLou and George Boone Gallery. The Huntington also regularly loans art objects for special exhibitions at museums nationally and internationally. Exhibits during the year included: * Peter Marino Bronzes * John Frame Sculpture * California Landscapes * 20th Century Printmakers * Taxing Visions. Financial Episodes in Late Nineteenth-Century American Art.

The Huntington Library is one of the world's great independent research libraries concentrated in the fields of British and American history, literature, and art and in the history of science stretching in time from the 11th century to the present. Among the collections: Seven million manuscripts, 410,000 rare books, 270,000 reference books, 1.3 million photographs, prints, and ephemera. The Library Exhibition Hall showcases some of the most outstanding rare books and manuscripts in the collection. The West Hall of the Library presents temporary exhibitions. Dibner Hall of the History of Science is a permanent exhibition on the history of science, focusing on astronomy, natural history, medicine, and light. The 90,000-square-foot Munger Research Center (opened in 2004) doubled the size of the Library. The Center provides storage capacity for further collections development, work space for scholars and staff, classrooms for educational activities, and facilities for conservation, preservation, digital imaging, and photography. The Library is open to scholars, known as readers, 303 days of the year, with an average of 67 Scholar visits daily. Exhibits during the year included: * Seven Years' War * Charles Bukowski.

(Code) (Expenses $ 10,210,069 including grants of $ 0) (Revenue $ 231,948)

Encompassing approximately 120 acres of the 207-acre grounds, the botanical gardens contain more than a dozen principal garden areas. Highlights: * Liu Fang Yuan, the Garden of Flowing Fragrance, reflecting the traditional style of scholar gardens in Suzhou, China, and featuring a 1.5-acre lake, a complex of pavilions, a teahouse and tea shop, and five stone bridges set against a wooded backdrop of mature oaks and pines. This initial phase of the garden covers about 3.5 acres of a planned 12-acre site. Plans and preparations are under way for phase II. * The Desert Garden, one of the largest outdoor collections of mature cacti and succulents in the world. * The Japanese Garden, with traditional Japanese plants, a drum bridge, a Japanese house, stone ornaments, a walled Zen garden, and a bonsai court. It closes for renovation in April 2011 and will reopen in the spring of 2012 to commemorate its centennial. * The Helen and Peter Bing Children's Garden, introducing youngsters to the wonders of the natural world through interactive sculptural elements. * The Rose Hills Foundation Conservatory for Botanical Science and the Associated Foundations Teaching Greenhouse, providing hands-on botanical science opportunities for children and families. The adjacent Botanical Center houses laboratories and classrooms that provide learning opportunities in plant sciences and gardening. * Additional garden areas are devoted to roses and camellias, each collection having more than 1,400 different cultivars. The camellia collection is considered one of the most comprehensive in the world. * The Herb, Jungle, Australian, Subtropical, and Palm gardens are among other important botanical attractions. Each year, The Huntington hosts botanical shows, conferences, lectures, and plant sales that focus on specific themes; more than 200 cactus and succulent enthusiasts attended the annual Desert Garden Forum, 300 participants attended the annual Great Rosarians of the World symposium, the 8th Annual Clivia show, San Marino League Art Walk, and the annual California Bonsai Society shows were all held at The Huntington this past year.

PROCEDURES FOR MONITORING USE OF GRANTS FUNDS IN THE U S	Part I, Line 2	The Huntington assembles external peer review committees, generally full professors from research universities, to award its fellowships. All of the committees' panelists must have a distinguished history of scholarly achievement and contributions to their field. The committee that selects the Dibner History of Science fellows consists of five historians of science. Each of the other three committees has representatives from each of the following fields: American history, American literature, British history, British literature, and art history. We look for candidates who have a broad overview of their field and who are not committed to a narrow agenda of scholarship. The applications are assessed, discussed by the appropriate committee, and a final list is assembled based on the scores and discussions. At the end of the award period the fellow is requested to provide a written statement of progress on their research made during the award period to The Huntington's Director of Research. They are also requested to keep The Huntington informed of the published results, a copy of the book is requested but not required.

Business or Family Relationship of Officers, Directors, Etc	Form 990, Part VI, Line 2	The Huntington governing body is a five member Board of Trustees. We also have a Board of Overseers that work with each program area in making recommendations to the Trustees. Some of the Trustees have a family relationship with some of the Overseers. The Huntington's President is a board member of a not-for-profit that has been established by an Overseer. Some of the Trustees and Overseers work for organizations that provide goods and services to the Huntington. All relationships are reviewed by the Audit Committee annually, and any potential conflicts of interest have been addressed.
