Tennesseans with regard to petroleum and alternative fuels' use and 4) be a collaborative partner to all in the region to help achieve success in pursuing the first three goals.

Our Accomplishments are numerous, but major ones include holding regional meetings to foster accurate information exchange, working on publications that help disseminate regional alt-fuels information, partnering with the state on a number of activities including helping move public stations into the region and putting on biofuel workshops, and working with individual fleets and fuel suppliers to get them becoming regional players in switching away from petroleum alone as transportation fuels.

We stand as the main organization in East Tennessee that focuses on this one problem and helps businesses and individuals of many different types find ways to change.
