Baal Dan raises money in the United States and then provides grants to projects in India. Grants are allocated to orphanages, school, charities and grassroot projects in India that have been audited (personally visited) by a Baal Dan representative and meet certain requirements. Baal Dan works with these projects to determine how best to help the children in their care.

In order for a project to receive a grant money certain requirements must be met. A grant application is required annually for each project. This application requires, among other things, a statement of the projects purpose and goals along with a brief description of sources of funds. The grant requestor agrees to use the funds provided by Baal Dan directly for the children it serves. It also agrees to provide written reports to Baal Dan as to the use of the funds as well as maintain records and receipts for Baal Dan's review upon request. The projects selected for grants must allow unrestricted access to Baal Dan's representatives for purposes of project review, either through personal site visits, phone discussions or emails. Also, each grant requestor must certify that it has not provided and will not provide support or resources to any individual or organization that advocates, plans, sponsors, engages in, or has engaged in terrorist activity.

Once grant requests have been received, each request is reviewed and determined whether the project is stable, reputable and in keeping with Baal Dan's purpose and goals. All grants over $5,000 are approved by Baal Dan's board of directors. In most cases funds are wired to the grant recipient.

Baal Dan was formed in 2006 by Tanya Pinto. Since 2006, there has been an unpaid board of directors formed which currently includes 8 people. Two of these directors are family relations with Tanya Pinto, President. The boards meets by conference call at least once a year to discuss the progress of the organization. Also, the board's approval is required for grants to ensure that the grantee organization meets Baal Dan's ultimate mission and can be a good steward of the funds.

On Form 990, Part XI, Line 5 an adjustment has been made to the net assets to properly account for prior year activities.

On Schedule F, Part VI, Line 11a, the Form 990 and supplemental schedules were provided to the Advisory Board in electronic format.
