Part I Line 10: Grants and similar amounts paid:

The organization hosted/organized the 2011 International Conference on Arabidopsis Research (ICAR) in Madison, Wisconsin (June 22-25).

It provided support to 62 participants to allow them to attend the 2011 conference. Participants included: early and advanced career invited speakers; under-represented minority educators, students and researchers from the US including faculty at Historically Black Colleges & Universities (HBCUs) and Minority Serving Institutions (MSIs); and US non-minority students and other early career researchers.

Part I Line 16: Other expenses:

Includes organization and participant costs relating to an Arabidopsis community workshop involving addressing bioinformatics needs of the international scientific community. 4 participants were supported for the workshop held in San Diego, CA (January, 2011).

Includes: office supply costs and other business expenses.

Part I Line 20: Other changes in net assets.

(-$1.00) in net assets due to rounding of individual components in expenses sections.

The organization, North American Arabidopsis Steering Committee (NAASC), was formed to forge relationships, foster communication among North American scientists, and provide North American representation to the international community involved in research and education using the plant Arabidopsis thaliana. Arabidopsis thaliana is a small flowering plant that is widely used worldwide as a model organism for basic research in plant genetics and molecular biology. The function of NAASC is to serve as a liaison between members of the community and government and not-for-profit granting agencies, to provide representation of the community to international research efforts and service facilities such as ABRC and TAIR, and to play a major role in planning, running, and fundraising for the annual International Arabidopsis conferences. Members of NAASC also participate in domestic and international efforts involving plant biology research and support of plant biology communities, especially Arabidopsis.
