FDC Foundation Grant Guidelines

These grant guidelines provide information about the FDC Foundation and the minimum requirements that must be met to be eligible for the Board of Directors to consider your grant application. We make program, project and operating grants to nonprofit 501(c)(3) organizations that align with the Foundation's mission. These guidelines describe the purpose of the Foundation's grant making program, eligibility criteria, and the procedures to follow in submitting your application. Please review these guidelines carefully and submit your application package in the requested format.

Mission Statement

The FDC Foundation is a non-profit foundation founded in 2008 by Frank D. Cluck to support charitable organizations within the United States in three principle areas:

- Health: Specifically, the FDC Foundation contributes to organizations supporting:
 - (1) improved nutrition for Americans, including organizations supplying food and food supplements to people in need as well as those providing education regarding proper nutrition;
 - (2) the treatment of persons with diabetes, including education, nutrition, medication and supplies for persons who either now have or who are at high risk of developing diabetes; and
 - (3) the expanded use of alternative medicines, including all forms of non-traditional therapies and medications that offer promise of improving the lives of people, whether healthy or ill.
- Education: Specifically, the FDC Foundation contributes to organizations that support:
 - (1) early childhood development programs, including but not limited to organizations conducting research on the most promising forms of early childhood development and educational institutions currently doing outstanding work in the field;
 - (2) programs for returning scholars, supporting organizations that provide financial support (such as reimbursement of tuition, fees, cost of books and additional living expenses) incurred by persons who return to school to continue their education later in life (beyond the age when that level of education is customarily completed); and

(3) literary achievement, specifically organizations (such as colleges and universities) offering financial support or programs to gifted individuals pursuing the creation of meritorious literary works (poetry, fiction, drama, non-fiction prose, or translation) over a specific time period (such as one year).

- Housing: Specifically, the FDC Foundation contributes to organizations that provide housing opportunities for those who have difficulty finding housing or achieving home ownership. The organizations may support construction of new housing, rehabilitation of existing housing, or financing of housing for people having unusual needs or facing extraordinary challenges. The Foundation may also offer grants to organizations supporting education for careers within the real estate industry, such as the endowment of a chair with the business department of a university.

The FDC Foundation actively seeks opportunities to leverage its efforts by combining forces with other organizations that offer matching or supplemental financial support for projects within the Foundation's areas of interest.
