Vidya targets low income communities and schools in third world countries. Volunteers build awareness of the Vidya program among students and parents in these communities. Many of our scholars are first generation school going children whose parents earn less than $2 a day. Low-income students may feel that they don't have a chance to attend school-college because their family can't pay for tuition.

Vidya is committed to helping these students.

Facts among Third World Countries:

Third World countries face a unique set of challenges in gaining access to a college education and are one of the most underrepresented groups both in school and in the degree-holding population. With extreme poverty and limited access to educational resources remaining persistent problems on reservations and educated professionals also in short supply in many communities, education is a pressing concern for Third World communities.

Scholarships:

A catalyst which helps these children attend private schools and achieve academic success which will lead them to college and further employment opportunities. For the recipients of the scholarships, Vidya helps them attend schools that they would not be able to attend otherwise.

Vidya enables a long-term impact:

Vidya Scholars are expected to excel beyond secondary education, which will likely bring positive changes within families. As some Vidya Scholars come back to their local community, they will have a positive impact on other families and students as well as the next generation

Vidya has multiple volunteers to help each child apply and qualify for grants. Vidya has no employees. Currently, Vidya does not own any Vidya financial records are overseen by Javnick Financial. Each month, Javnick is provided information regarding financial transactions.
