NEW MEDIA ANALYSIS GRANT APPLICATION

Instructions

Final Report

Final reports to the grantor are mandatory. Grant recipients must submit written reports within sixty days after the end of the grant period. The report should include a discussion of the scientific and scholarly accomplishments achieved under the grant, and a financial accounting of the funds in accordance with the approved budget must be submitted.

Application Procedure

Incomplete applications will not be processed.
Attach the following items:

A. Abstract

Enter an abstract describing the project and a statement specifying its relevance to understanding the dynamics of persuasive dialogue occurring in media. The abstract and statement of relevance should be self-contained and sufficient to serve as a succinct and accurate description of the project.

The name of the principal investigators should appear on the upper right corner of the abstract and on all succeeding pages.

B. Personnel

Include curricula vitae and lists of relevant publications for the principal investigator and all professional personnel. Do not exceed two pages for each person. Our grants are for individual or very small team projects. Applications which include the C.V.s of large groups of people are usually regarded project work that is not appropriate to this micro-grant program.

C. Budget

Submit a budget broken down into informative categories.

The majority of micro-grants range between $750 to $2,500 for three to six months, depending on the nature of the research. Projects that require larger budgets are simply not appropriate subjects for funding by this program.

We make contributions exclusively to direct costs of research, including computer costs, fieldwork costs, the expenses of library and archive work, essential assistance, and survey, subjects, and materials costs.

We do restrict the costs of assistance and materials to those necessary to the project proposed. It is not appropriate to request salary, assistance, or supplies that contribute to your general scholarly or teaching activities but are not essential to this particular project.

We do not offer support for the ongoing expenses of a laboratory or other institutional setting, such as a percentage of a secretary's time, office rental, or support for a team of student assistants, unless these expenses are demonstrated to be necessary to the specific project proposed.

Fees for "consultants" are generally not allowed.

Ask only for equipment and supplies needed for this research project. We do not consider general office supplies to be essential to a research project.

D. Budget Justification

Describe the need for and planned use of the funds requested for separate items in each budget category.

E. Research Plan

Outline the specific aims of the project and discuss the background and significance of the proposed work. Describe the methods and procedures of the research and the means by which the results will be analyzed and interpreted. Be concise, but give sufficient detail for a proper evaluation. (Research plans typically range from 5 to 10 double-spaced pages.) Supplementary supporting material is not necessary but may be submitted. However, the grantor cannot be responsible for the return of such material.

F. Other Support

Describe facilities and resources already available for the proposed research. Also list the title, source, amount, period of time for funding expected or being sought for this project from other sources during the period of the grant requested, and the expected notification date, including actual or probable publisher's advances. If no other applications have been or will be submitted, please so state.

G. Referees' Comments

Send a copy of the application and a referee form to each of two referees selected by you, the applicant, and enter their names and addresses in the appropriate place on the title page. The referees may not be involved in the project directly. Request that the referees complete the forms and return them to the foundation. The referees' comments are required to complete your proposal; incomplete proposals (including proposals for which referees comments have not been received) cannot be considered.
