Check if Schedule O contains a response to any question in this Part III ☒

To engage and catalyze global seafood supply chains in rebuilding depleted fish stocks and reducing the environmental impacts of fishing and fish farming

3 Did the organization cease conducting, or make significant changes in how it conducts, any program services? ☐ Yes ☒ No

If "Yes," describe these changes on Schedule O

SFP works to improve fisheries that are not yet managed well enough to meet the standards of credible international arbiters of sustainability. SFP does this by working with major seafood buyers and producers that both need the products of these fisheries, and are committed to sustainability in their sourcing. SFP engages the seafood industry to meet this challenge by helping less well-managed fisheries meet the environmental requirements of major markets. In 2011 SFP partnered with several retailers, wholesalers and restaurant chains, providing sustainable sourcing advice to key market players, and, in turn, applying their sustainable procurement commitments to drive improvement actions throughout the supply chain. One of the tools SFP uses (continued on Schedule O) (continued from page 2) to do this is through its FishSource program. FishSource is an online information resource that records the status of fish stocks and fisheries. SFP created FishSource with the vision that fisheries experts around the world could openly share their public scientific and technical information and provide major seafood buyers with up-to-date, impartial, actionable information on the status of fisheries and the improvements that are needed to become sustainable. In 2011 SFP achieved the milestone of 371 fisheries profiles being made publicly available on FishSource with another 952 in development. Overall, in 2011 SFP catalyzed or led over 50 fisheries and aquaculture improvement projects worldwide.
