KEI received an unusual grant from a single private foundation donor in December of 2011 of $5,485,690 in cash and marketable securities to be used to purchase and renovate real property to be used as research facilities, and to pay startup operating expenses not to exceed one year. The grantor was attracted to KEI as a result of KEI's public charity status, and the potential that providing KEI with a facility from which to conduct its charitable activity would increase KEI's likelihood of continued public support. This grant is unusual due to its large amount, and such grant would adversely affect the KEI's public charity status if considered as support.
