The focus of this effort is on preventing coastal armoring, protecting nearshore foraging and developmental habitats, serving on advisory committees, and creating partnerships with other stakeholders. Along with policy initiatives, STC conducts educational programming to raise awareness about threats to sea turtles and actions people can take to reduce impacts on turtles and their habitats. Costa Rica Sea Turtle Research and Conservation Program - STC is known for its sea turtle monitoring and protection program at Tortuguero, Costa Rica. The research takes place out of STC's biological field station, where researchers and volunteer participants gather each year to monitor and protect the nesting colony. Through this conservation program, STC has helped increase the green turtle nesting population in Tortuguero by more than 500%.

Barrier Island Center - The Barrier Island Center (BIC) is an educational facility located in the Archie Carr National Wildlife Refuge (the Refuge) in Melbourne Beach, Florida. The Refuge is one of the world's most important sea turtle nesting sites. The BIC is a focal point for the Refuge, providing educational exhibits, a presentation hall, and ongoing educational programs that promote stewardship of the area's coastal resources. Through a partnership with Brevard County, Florida, STC manages and conducts the educational programs offered at the BIC, including a summer camp, stewardship workshops and various annual events.

Panama Sea Turtle Research and Conversation Program - STC is working to protect and recover the globally-significant hawksbill and leatherback sea turtle nesting populations at Chiriqui Beach, Panama. The program consists of intensive monitoring of hawksbill and leatherback nesting activity, protection of nesting females and their nests, and public education in the STC's research facility also hosts visiting researchers seeking to develop conservation programs based on the indigenous partnership model in their own countries.

International Policy Program - This STC program is focused on reducing incidental capture of sea turtles in fisheries and promoting international accords for conservation. STC staff work with governments, regional fisheries, management organizations, fisherman and conservationists to address bycatch policy and promote turtle-friendly regulation in major commercial fisheries. Some of the possible solutions include gear modification, timely fisheries closures, and designation of protected areas. STC also engages in legal action against management agencies for failure to protect sea turtles under the Endangered Species Act. The organization also works to increase federal funding for sea turtle protection efforts nationally and internationally.
