		Client Note 1 - Form 990, Part III, Line 4a - Program Service Accomplishments Developed analysis, case studies, and online interactives for a comprehensive report, The Economic Importance of National Monuments to Local Communities, which examined the 17 national monuments in the eleven western continental states that are larger than 10,000 acres and were established in 1982 or later As part of this work, Headwaters Economics testified before the U S House of Representatives and also met with local officials, businesses and others in California and Nevada concerning the potential impact of a new national monument in those regions Produced a report, Fossil Fuel Extraction and Western Economies, that compares the importance of the fossil fuel economy in the five Rocky Mountain energy-producing states-Colorado, Montana, New Mexico, Utah, and Wyoming-and analyzes the relative success that states and communities have had in maximizing the benefits and minimizing the costs of energy development Produced a graphical analysis, Drilling Rig Activity Nears Twenty-Year High, showing that oil and natural gas drilling in the United States has returned to pre-recession levels The study reviewed how market prices and advancements in drilling technology account for most of the increases in drilling activity and shows several key indicators trends in rig counts by energy type compared to market prices, rig activity by technology, and activity trends by state, with an emphasis on the energy-producing Rocky Mountain States (CO, MT, NM, UT, and WY) along with North Dakota Completed two reports-MSTI Questions and Answers and MSTI Economic Impacts-as part of the "MSTI Review Project," which is providing independent analysis to evaluate the possible effects on local communities from the proposed Mountain States Transmission Intertie (MSTI), a 500 kV line proposed by NorthWestern Energy that would cross Montana and Idaho As part of this work, staff met numerous times with county officials in Montana and Idaho, stakeholders, agency staff, and others Produced a report and presentation that analyzes the impact of housing and climate on the costs of fighting forest fires in the twelve national forests of the Sierra Nevada The paper was submitted to the International Journal of Wildland Fire Headwaters Economics also presented its fire research to the Rocky Mountain Land Use Institute conference and the California fire research conference The Headwaters Economics paper, The Recession and the New Economy of the West The Familiar Boom and Bust Cycle?, was accepted for publication and is in press at Journal of Growth and Change Produced a report, The Economic Value of Public Lands in Grand County, Utah, that analyzes the major economic role that public lands in that county play in the region, finding that tourism and recreation businesses account for 44 percent of private employment in the county, and that more than one-third of local families have a member that works in a tourism and recreation business related to public lands Produced a report, Ideas for Economic Recovery in Carey, Idaho, which discusses the regional impacts of the recession and strategies to rebuild the local economy Created training materials and provided ongoing maintenance for the Economic Profile System-Human Dimensions Toolkit, and also improved the structure and performance of the EPS-HDT Data Library Analyzed and produced a series of reports and interactive graphics showing the impact of potential reforms to the Secure Rural Schools and Payment in Lieu of Taxes programs as proposed in the House and Senate, and by the President Created two forest resource data sets and interactive maps showing gross receipts for all commercial activities on every National Forest in the country from 2005-2010 as well as timber sales and timber cuts on every National Forest in the country from 1980-2010 Produced socioeconomic analysis, interactive graphics, and in-depth profiles-in cooperation with the Clark Fork Coalition and the Geos Institute-as part of a report, Missoula County Climate Change Primer, which was developed for a regional series of Climatewise workshops Created two slideshow presentations as part of our work with communities dealing with climate change adaptation that use Missoula County and Western Montana to illustrate the extent to which homes have been built in flood and wildfire hazard areas that are of particular concern since climate models predict larger and more frequent floods and fires throughout the northern Rockies Taught several classes and provided assistance for Climate Solutions University and also gave presentations on the economics of climate adaptation at two gatherings of the leadership of the Great Northern LCC Released a report, The Effects of Climate Change on the Downhill Skiing and Recreational Fishing Economy in the Crown of the Continent, that studies the possible effects of climate change on these two "snow-pack" dependent sectors of the economy These sectors are harbingers of potential impacts on other sectors, such as irrigated agriculture and forestry, which are vulnerable to changes in snow pack, river flows, and temperature Worked with more than 100 economists and academics in related fields from across the country to send a letter to President Obama urging him to "create jobs and support businesses by investing in our public lands infrastructure and establishing new protected areas such as parks, wilderness, and monuments "Created an interactive tool showing visits, non-local spending, and the number of jobs created in gateway communities for each of the National Park Service units Data were obtained from the MGM2 model, which estimates the economic impacts from visitation to National Park Service visitor spending in a local region Produced a report, The Agricultural Economy and Public Lands Ranching Strategies in Southern Utah, that provides decision-makers and stakeholders involved with public lands management a broad overview of the role of agriculture in the regional economy of southern Utah The report identifies some of the specific economic issues facing livestock producers who hold permits to graze on national forest lands in the area We also prepared a number of profiles of the agricultural economy of the region Published a Research Update newsletter on findings from our research The newsletter focused on the Economic Profile System-Human Dimensions Toolkit, along with other ongoing research All newsletters are available for download from our website Worked with regional and national media to understand western issues ranging from energy development and the impacts of the recession to climate change and wildfire Our data and research were frequently referenced by a wide variety of news media throughout the year Delivered numerous public talks, briefings, and presentations to the public, elected officials, agency staff, and others throughout the year
