FORM 990, PART III, LINE 4C	EDUCATION DIVISION	The mission of Asia Society's Education Division is to develop youth to be globally competent citizens, workers and leaders by equipping them with the knowledge and skills needed for success in an interdependent world. The division does this by increasing both the demand and the supply for global competence and knowledge about Asia, while promoting equity and excellence in education. Demand for global competence is increased by sharing best practices from around the world by connecting schools in the United States to schools in Asia, as well as organizing a series of Asia-Pacific Forums on Education in China, India, and the United States to discuss the challenges of globalization to education. A supply of teachers, leaders and schools with the capacity to prepare globally competent students is created by Demand for global competence is increased by creating globally-focused school models of excellence, and developing tools, curriculum, and best practices to create students who graduate both college-ready and globally competent. The centerpiece of this work is the International Studies Schools Network, a national network of small urban secondary schools devoted to international studies and world languages. Demand for global competence is increased by expanding the number of schools offering Chinese language instruction through publications, the National Chinese Language Conference, and the Confucius Classrooms Project, an initiative to establish or expand 100 Chinese language programs in schools and school districts across the United States and link them to 100 schools in China. Demand for global competence is increased by promoting global learning as a key component to high-quality afterschool programs and as a means to collaborate with schools to achieve essential 21st century outcomes for youth. Web Resources provide a broad range of background knowledge about Asia, curriculum materials, video and audio resources, and other materials to support education about Asia and the world found online at www.asiasociety.org/education. All of this work is represented by The Asia Society Partnership for Global Learning, a network of educators committed to sharing best practices and promoting policy innovations to help our schools prepare students to be both college-ready and globally competent. The Partnership provides the Education Division a means to connect the various strands of our work to systematically engage practitioners, policymakers, and the public through publications, professional development, digital media, and meetings, including our annual conference.
