Proposals from deserving organizations that are registered as charities in India are reviewed for support to specific projects and support to social workers and activities they intend to pursue that help the poor and marginalized and are in line with AID's mission and its 501(c)(3) status After discussion of detailed budgets and project goals and objectives in chapter meetings that are open to public and/or

Executive Board meetings, and communication with the NGOs and social workers that help address any questions raised by volunteers, they are voted on for approval On approval, they are forwarded to a central Projects and Long-term Partner team that works with the Project and Long-term partner coordinators of the Executive Board, to ensure compliance with the 501(c)(3) standards, AID mission and ideology Every group being considered for support or supported by AID is visited by volunteers and these independent visit reports are documented The groups receiving support send detailed reports on progress of work and make available their financial and audit statements The Board of Directors makes the final decision in case any concerns or issues arise and also works with the Executive Board to maintain oversight
