Part 1 Line 2: The principal recipient of grants by the organization is the National Portrait Gallery of London, a world renowned publicly-supported art institution that recently celebrated its 150th anniversary (the "Gallery). As the Gallery is well-known to the organization by reason of their close working relationship and frequent contacts and because the Gallery's financial accounts are publicly available and thus readily accessible by the organization, the organization is uniquely able to monitor the use of its grants to the Gallery. In some instances the organization's grants to the Gallery are designated for a particular public exhibition in the Gallery. When grants by the organization to the Gallery are intended for general support of the Gallery's operations, the use of such grants by the Gallery is monitored by reviewing the Gallery's financial accounts.

Part VI Question 11a: After the 990 is prepared by the Treasurer it is sent to the trustees for their review. They review it based upon their knowledge of the organization.

Question 12c: In accordance with its Conflict of Interest Policy, the organization annually asks each Trustee to complete a Conflict of Interest questionnaire form. The completed forms are submitted to the Treasurer, who reports to the Board of Trustees on any conflicts reported on these completed forms. The Board (excluding any Trustee who may have reported a conflict) reviews and discusses any conflict information reported and determines whether such conflict would preclude the Trustee from participating in the decision with respect to any matter in which the subject Trustee may have had a conflict of a personal, financial or business nature. For example, during 2012 the Board was aware that its then Chair had been a member of the board of the National Portrait Gallery (as disclosed in response to Form 990, Part IV, Question 28c), but unanimously approved the organization's grant to the National Portrait Gallery (as reported elsewhere in this Form 990), concluding that such potential conflict did not preclude the organization from proceeding with its 2012 grant.

Question 19: The organization did not receive any requests for data from the public in 2012. The organization's Form 990 is available through the web at Guidestar.org. The organization will provide copies of legally required documents by mail or e-mail.
