Scholarships: The Foundation stays in regular contact via e-mail, correspondence, and in person with the recipients of the scholarship grants to monitor their progress at NWU or the other colleges they are attending to be sure the moneys are being spent on tuition, books, housing, etc., at the college and/or university. The Foundation officers meet at least twice a year for meetings with the scholarship recipients and with university/college officials to be sure the scholarship recipients remain in school and that the funds are being used at that university or college to pursue their education.

Nebraska Wesleyan University and the Foundation each have officials from each institution assigned to the executive committee to monitor the use of funds in the United States and at the University of Tartu in Estonia. In addition the comptrollers of both NWU and UT review the expenditures, the receipts, etc., and the Foundation reviews and monitors its bank statements so that its internal records match and correlate with each of the university's expenditure records

Supplemental information to Line 8 Part 1 and Line 3 Part 10: The amounts shown in those lines included $915,622.83 in pledges and commitments from persons and institutions who have made contributions and commitments in the past history of the Foundation.

Part VI Line 11b The Form 990 was discussed with members of the Executive Committee, officers, counsel, and the Board of Directors.

Information to answer particular questions and other information was obtained from some officers, directors, and counsel. Copies of this Form 990 will be made available to and discussed with the Directors at a future meeting or conference call.

Part VI Line 19: The Foundation and its counsel monitor on a regular and consistent basis in its meetings and conference calls compliance by its directors and consultants with the conflict of interest policies. Since it is a small board with counsel and consultants that meets via conference calls and regular meetings, the other board members on an individuals basis would be aware of any activities regarding the Foundation that could or would be in actual or potential violation of the conflict of interest policy. The Foundation chairman and other board members in meetings with the public, potential donors, scholarship winners and their parents, members of the Executive Committee, or the NWU-University of Tartu Exchange Program, report that this information is available upon written request to the Chairman

EXCHANGE PROGRAMS WITH THE UNIVERSITY OF TARTU, ESTONIA

In 2007, an historic, exchange partnership between Nebraska Wesleyan University and the University of Tartu in Estonia was born, including not only students, but also faculty and distinguished lecturers in academics, politics, and business. In 2012, the College of Charleston joined the Exchange.

In addition to providing an opportunity for students to bridge home culture and experiences with different ones across the world, these programs promote an appreciation for democratic principles by facilitating economic and political cooperation, thereby enhancing the lives of all who participate.
