	During 2012, the Farallon Institute conducted various research studies regarding the subject of ecological change as exemplified in the Pacific Northwest. The studies included examinations of marine bird statistics and the incidence of plankton in the Gulf of Alaska, analysis of ecosystem information to improve the decision support system for the salmon population in the central/northern California coastal area, and an examination of winter upwelling with respect to California current ecosystem dynamics. All studies were funded by contracts and subcontracts predominantly with government agencies. The results of these studies and of all of Farallon's research are held in the public domain for the benefit of the general public.

Identifier	Return Reference	Explanation
Part X	Part X FIN48 Footnote	The Institute is exempt from income taxation under Section 501 (c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code and Section 23701d of the California Revenue and Taxation Code. The Internal Revenue Service has determined the Institute is not a private foundation under Section 509(a)(2). Generally accepted accounting principles provide accounting and disclosure guidance about positions taken by an Organization in its tax returns that might be uncertain. Management has considered its tax positions and believes that all of the positions taken by the Organization in their federal and state exempt Agency tax returns are more likely than not to be sustained upon examination. The Institute's evaluation on December 31, 2011, revealed no tax positions that would have a material impact on the financial statements. The Institute does not believe that any reasonably possible changes will occur within the next twelve months that will have a material impact on the financial statements.
