28 The Millennium Campus Network (MCN) is a Boston-based, national non-profit that makes university student organizations committed to global development more effective and sustainable. Through its annual conference, districts and grants programs, the MCN is creating the next generation of global leaders on campuses across America. Millennium Campus Conference In 2012, MCN's annual conference brought together 1200 participants from across the globe to discuss the cutting edge of global development policy and practice. Global leaders including 2011 Nobel Peace Prize winner Leymah Gbowee, Dr. Paul Farmer of Partners in Health, economist Dr. Jeffrey Sachs, and other leaders educated student leaders on how to create more high impact efforts. MCN Student Action Network In 2012, the MCN provided financial support to top performing campus organizations. Organizations received support for their work on campus and travel initiatives, enabling students to raise awareness on pressing global issues and help communities gain access to clean, safe drinking water. MCN Districts In 2012, student volunteers coordinated MCN districts, helping student leaders in four cities develop skills through workshops and explore opportunities through networking sessions.
