Form 990 - Organization's Mission or Most Significant Activities

The Everglades Foundation was instrumental in developing a new plan to clean up nutrient pollution flowing into the Everglades. The Foundation's scientists developed and proposed a technical plan that the state and federal agencies are planning to construct. The massive $880 million plan will protect the Everglades and generate construction and engineering jobs.

The Foundation was also instrumental in getting the adoption of a streamlined planning process for Everglades restoration projects that will cut the time for the planning from 7 years to 18 months. This will jumpstart efforts build the projects that will re-establish the historical 'River of Grass' flows. The Everglades Foundation has dramatically ramped its very successful Education and Outreach Project. Last year, we organized tours and briefings for key opinion leaders, decision makers and elected officials. Almost 3700 people joined us, including state legislators, members of Congress and their staff, business leaders, and local and state officials.
